During Ramadan, an Islamic video series titled 'Ayyam Mududat' was launched and circulated.

A successful Quran Competition program named 'Itqan' was organized, which witnessed participation from over 100+ individuals.

'Isteqbal-e-Ramzan' programs were conducted at multiple locations to guide people on how to spend Ramadan meaningfully and prepare for the blessed month.

A two-day intensive training camp titled 'Beesarah' was conducted alongside the Members Meet, which saw participation from members across all of Delhi. During this program, participants were oriented about the organizational training framework and developmental aspects of the Tanzeem.

SIO Delhi organized a two-day Leaders Training Camp in Ghonda, designed to foster organizational excellence. The camp provided a platform for in-depth discussions on organizational work, focused on strengthening the Tarbiyati aspects among leaders, and aimed at enhancing their leadership qualities and capabilities.

Organization

SIO Delhi organized a one-day Leaders Camp targeting Unit Leaders, aimed at providing clarity on organizational policies and the annual action plan. The session emphasized practical approaches to developing leadership qualities at the grassroots unit level. The program was attended by leadership including Brother Wasiullah from the Markaz and the Ameer-e-Halqa.

SIO Delhi launched an intensive one-month Associate Campaign focused on maximizing organizational membership across the capital. The campaign included dedicated programs tailored for associates, complemented by systematic unit visits by Delhi Zone leaders who personally interacted with potential members to strengthen their connection with the organization.

SIO Delhi organized 'Nahdah,' a specially curated camp for selected associates. The program provided in-depth training on Islamic values, Quranic principles and rulings, and the organizational syllabus. To complement the educational component, participants were also taken on a two-day spiritual tour, enhancing their overall learning experience.

SIO Delhi Celebrate its Formation Day on 19th October with great enthusiasm. The ceremony was honored by the presence of the Sadar-e-Tanzeem (National President), the Vice President of JIH, and senior leaders from Delhi. The program formally began with the flag hoisting ceremony.

SIO Delhi organized Regional Review Meets and Unit Review Meets as part of its performance assessment framework. These sessions provided a platform for evaluating the work being carried out at both regional and unit levels, with focused discussions on best practices and actionable strategies for continuous improvement.

Under the initiative titled 'Tajdeed,' Zonal Leaders conducted unit tours where they interacted with unit members. These visits facilitated direct interaction between leadership and unit members, creating opportunities for meaningful dialogue and collaborative discussions on enhancing the effectiveness of unit-level activities.

Campus and Education

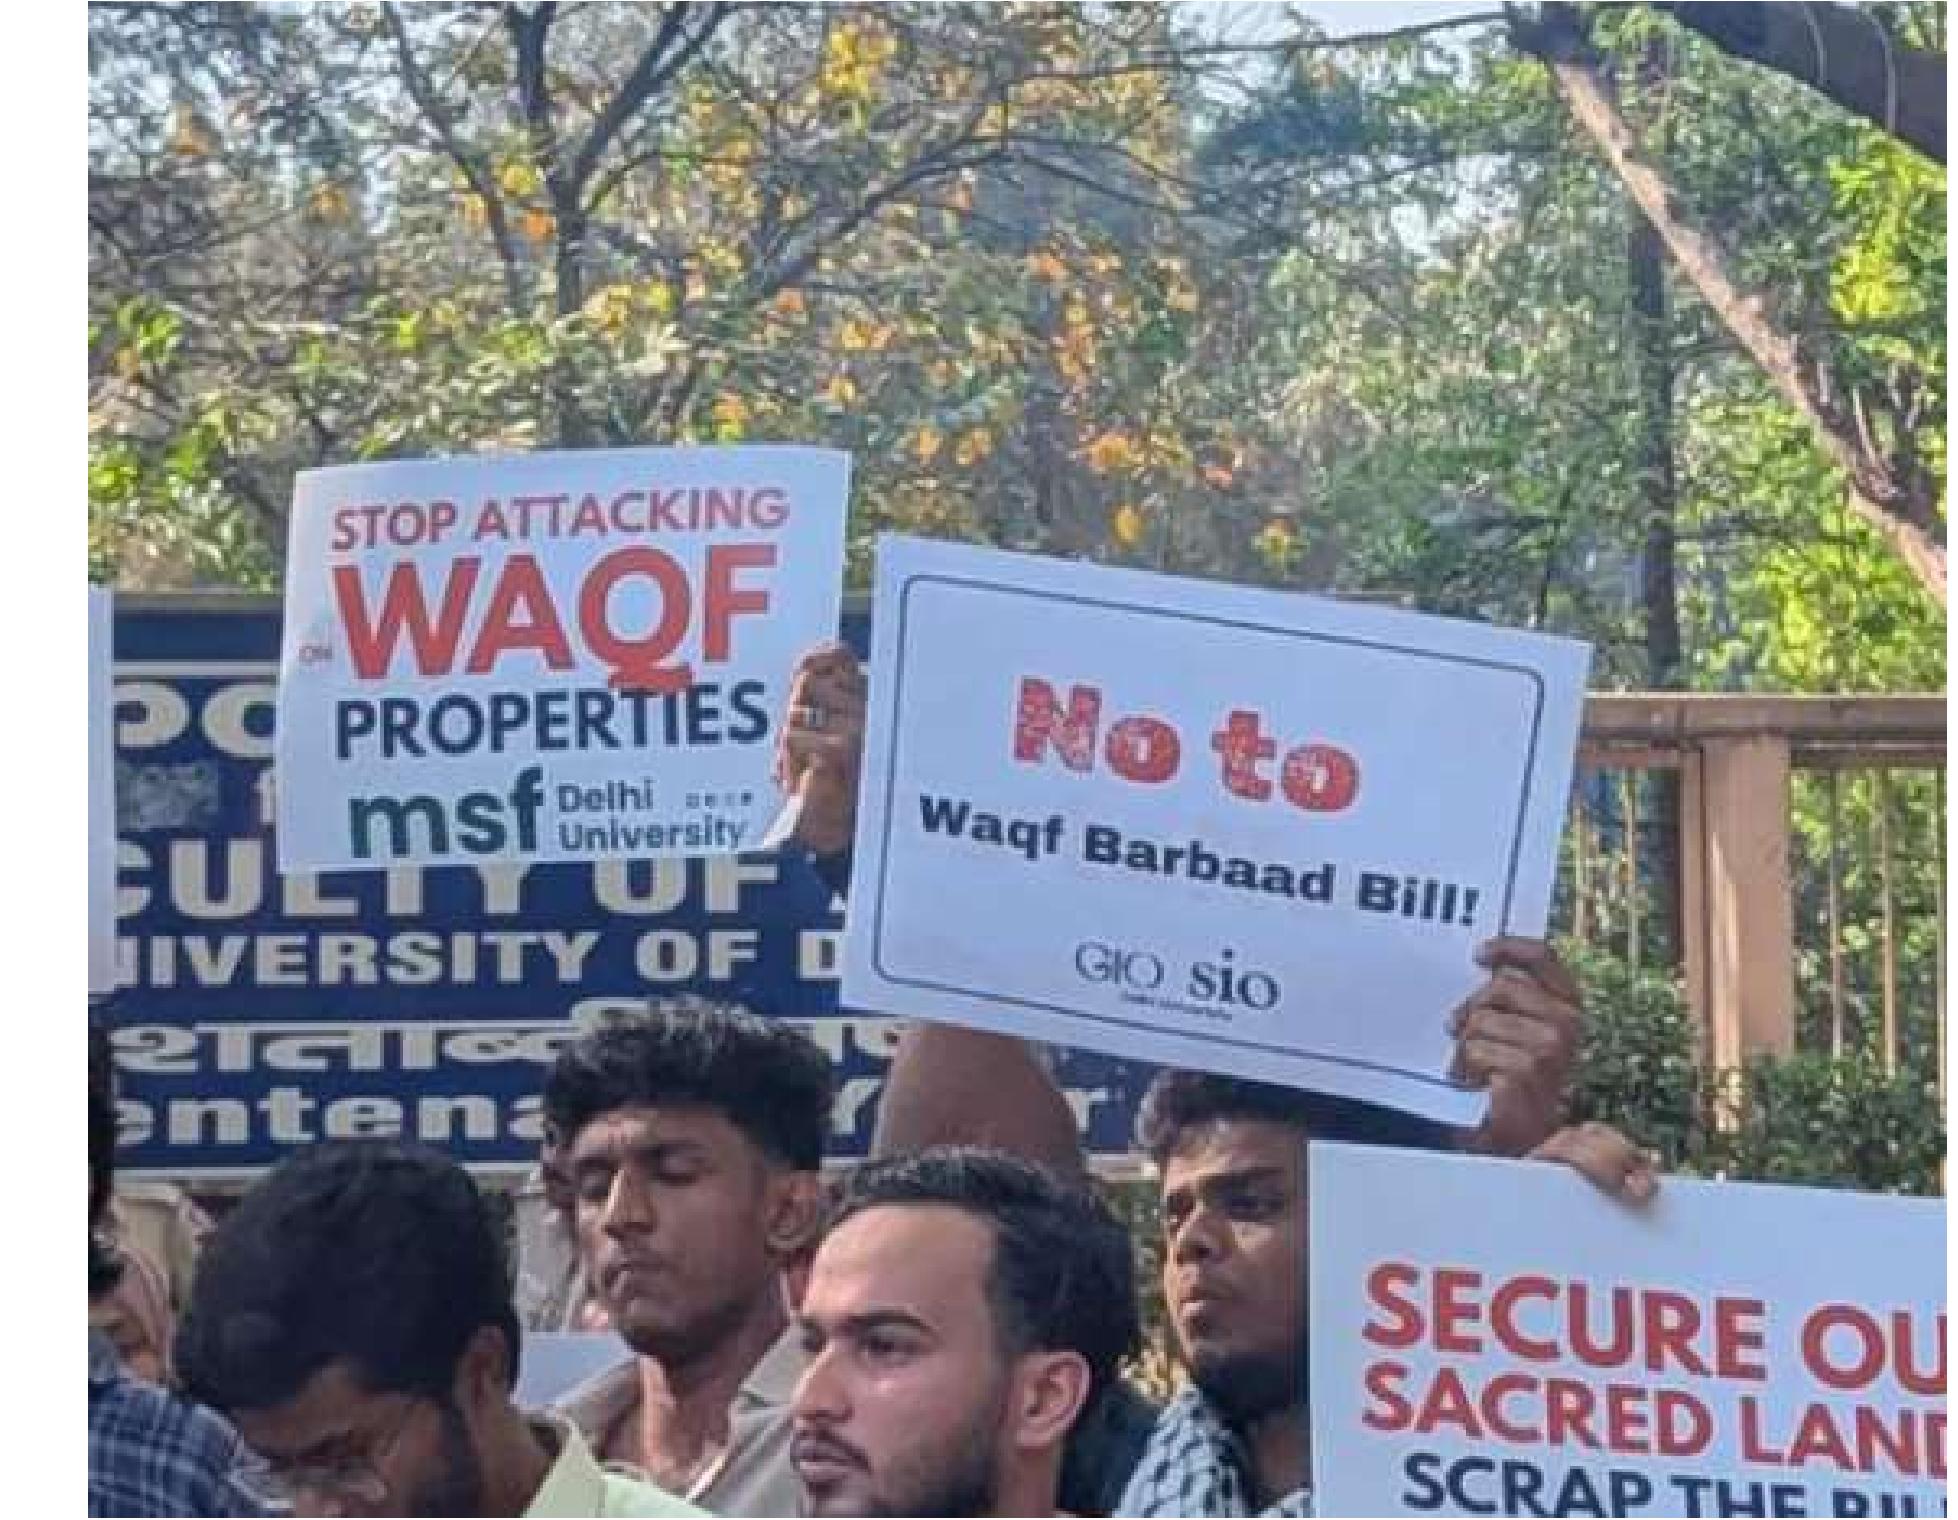

An Academic Conference was conducted with the theme 'Faith in Flux: Navigating Identity in the Modern Campus.' The event witnessed participation from 100+ students representing different colleges and universities across Delhi.

The National President (Sadar-e-Tanzeem) and Media Secretary of SIO India met with Br. Hazrat Parwana, a student who was wrongfully detained by Delhi Police. He was arrested in connection with disturbances caused by ABVP activists during Diwali celebrations, despite having no involvement in the incident.

Members of SIO Jamia organized a peaceful protest to remember the incident that occurred five years ago on 15th December, when Delhi Police entered the campus during the anti-CAA protests.

Programs were organized on campuses regarding the Waqf Amendment Act, along with peaceful protests, to raise awareness among students about this issue.

FRAMING ACADEMIA

SIO Delhi University conducted an awareness program focused on Waqf, aimed at educating students about the importance and relevance of the Waqf system.

SIO Jamia conducted an online guidance program named 'Aaghaz 2.0,' aimed at helping students understand the process of appearing for Jamia entrance examinations and the Common University Entrance Test (CUET). The virtual session attracted significant participation from aspiring students.

SIO DU and SIO Jamia jointly operated help desks aimed at assisting students arriving in Delhi. The objective was to provide support for their various needs and make them feel welcomed and at home.

SIO Delhi conducted career guidance programs in multiple locations, specifically targeting underprivileged areas where education is often undervalued. These sessions aimed at highlighting the significance of education and inspiring young people to pursue academic goals.

SIO Delhi organized a comprehensive Campus Associate Camp bringing together students from all major campuses across Delhi. The camp provided participants with deeper insights into SIO's organizational objectives and the philosophy of the movement (Tahreek), while simultaneously encouraging them to develop strong leadership qualities and take active roles in student affairs.

Social and Justice

SIO Delhi marked Yaum-ul-Quds Day during Ramzan with a powerful art exhibition highlighting the injustices and atrocities being committed in Palestine. Held on the last Friday of Ramzan, the exhibition brought together artwork from numerous contributors, creating a platform for solidarity and raising awareness about the Palestinian struggle.

Throughout the year, SIO Delhi joined forces with multiple organizations to participate in approximately 5-6 protests condemning the ongoing genocide in Palestine. These demonstrations reflected collective solidarity and commitment to raising awareness about the humanitarian crisis.

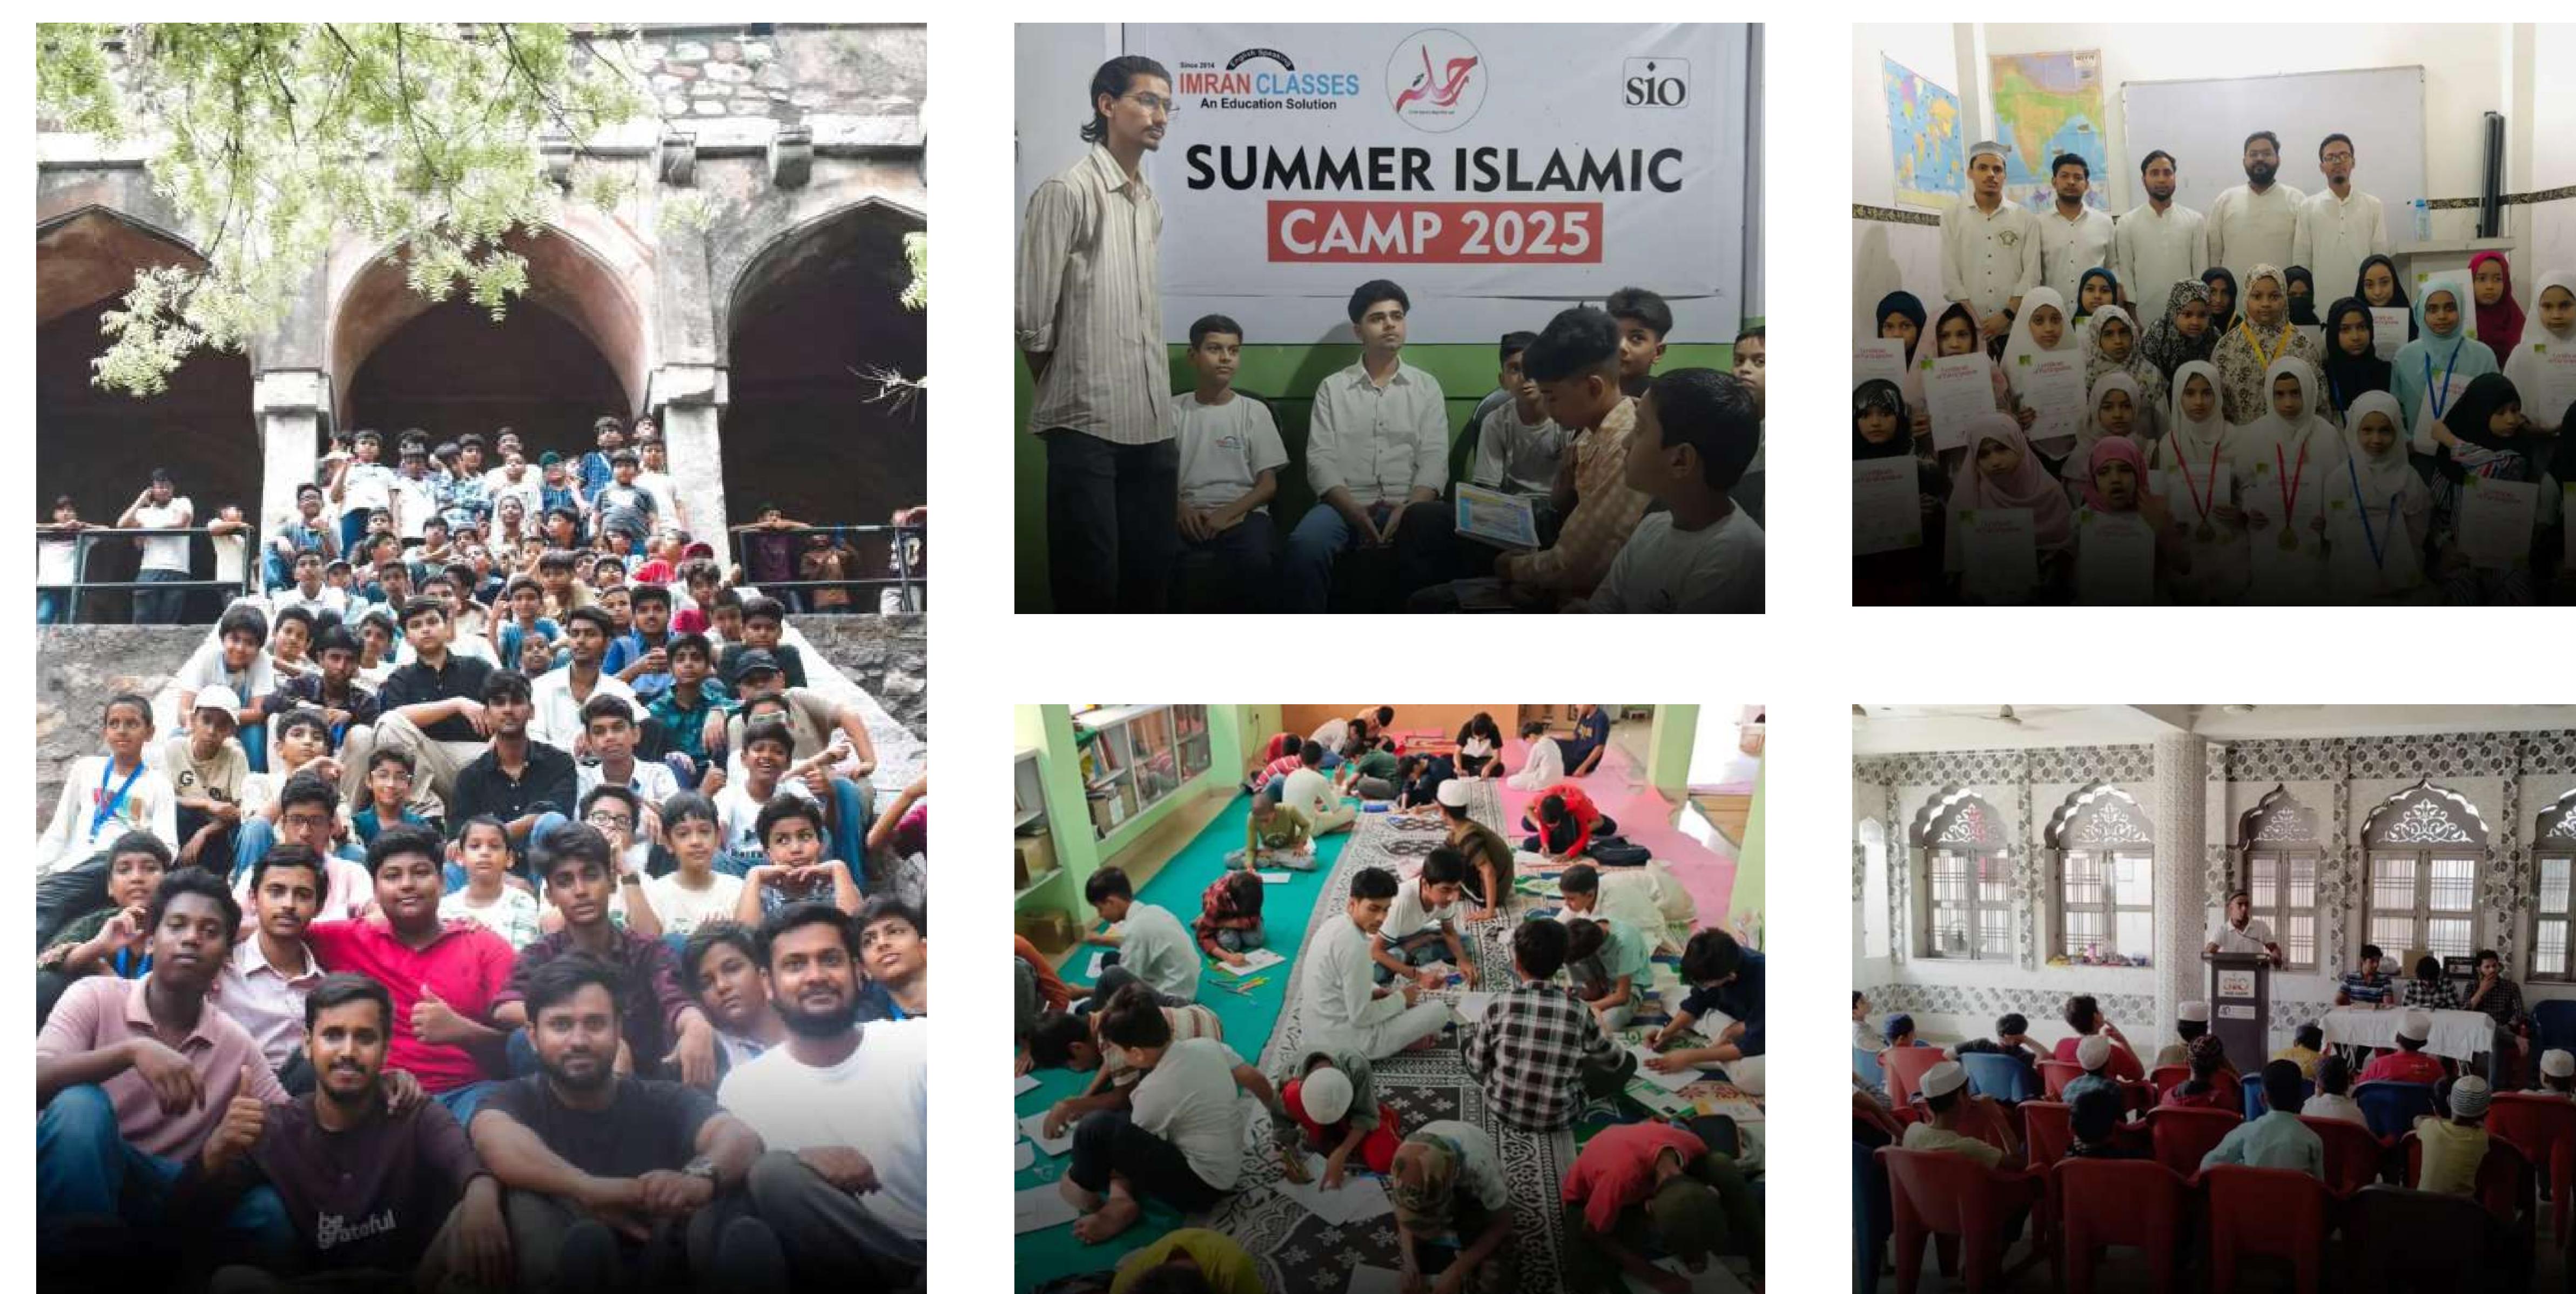

Throughout the holy month of Ramzan, multiple Iftar camps were organized across various locations. These camps catered to office-goers and others who were unable to reach home on time, ensuring they could break their fast with dignity and community support.

Junior Associate Circle

SIO Delhi conducted summer camps across more than 20 venues, attracting participation from over 2,500 children. The programs emphasized foundational Islamic etiquettes and moral values, aiming to nurture children's connection with Islam from their formative years. The camps also featured a variety of entertainment activities such as games, movie screenings, and other recreational programs to ensure an engaging learning experience.

A one-day JAC Organizers Meet was conducted for leaders managing JAC activities in their respective units. Participants were briefed on JAC policies and provided with both theoretical and practical guidance on how to effectively conduct JAC programs, enabling them to nurture children and contribute toward building a better society.

Each unit organized Iftar meets specifically for JAC children during Ramzan. These gatherings provided opportunities for children to share Iftar together while engaging in meaningful discussions about the importance of fasting and the significance of the Quran during the holy month.

An educational visit to the graveyard (Qabristan) was organized for JAC children with the objective of cultivating fear of Allah (Taqwa) and helping them develop a balanced perspective—reducing attachment to worldly matters while increasing consciousness of the Hereafter. During this visit, children were also provided practical knowledge about burial procedures and how the deceased are placed in the grave.

A Regional JAC Tarbiyati Camp was conducted, bringing together children from various units within the region. The camp emphasized character development and moral training while familiarizing participants with SIO's goals and organizational mission.

Public Relations

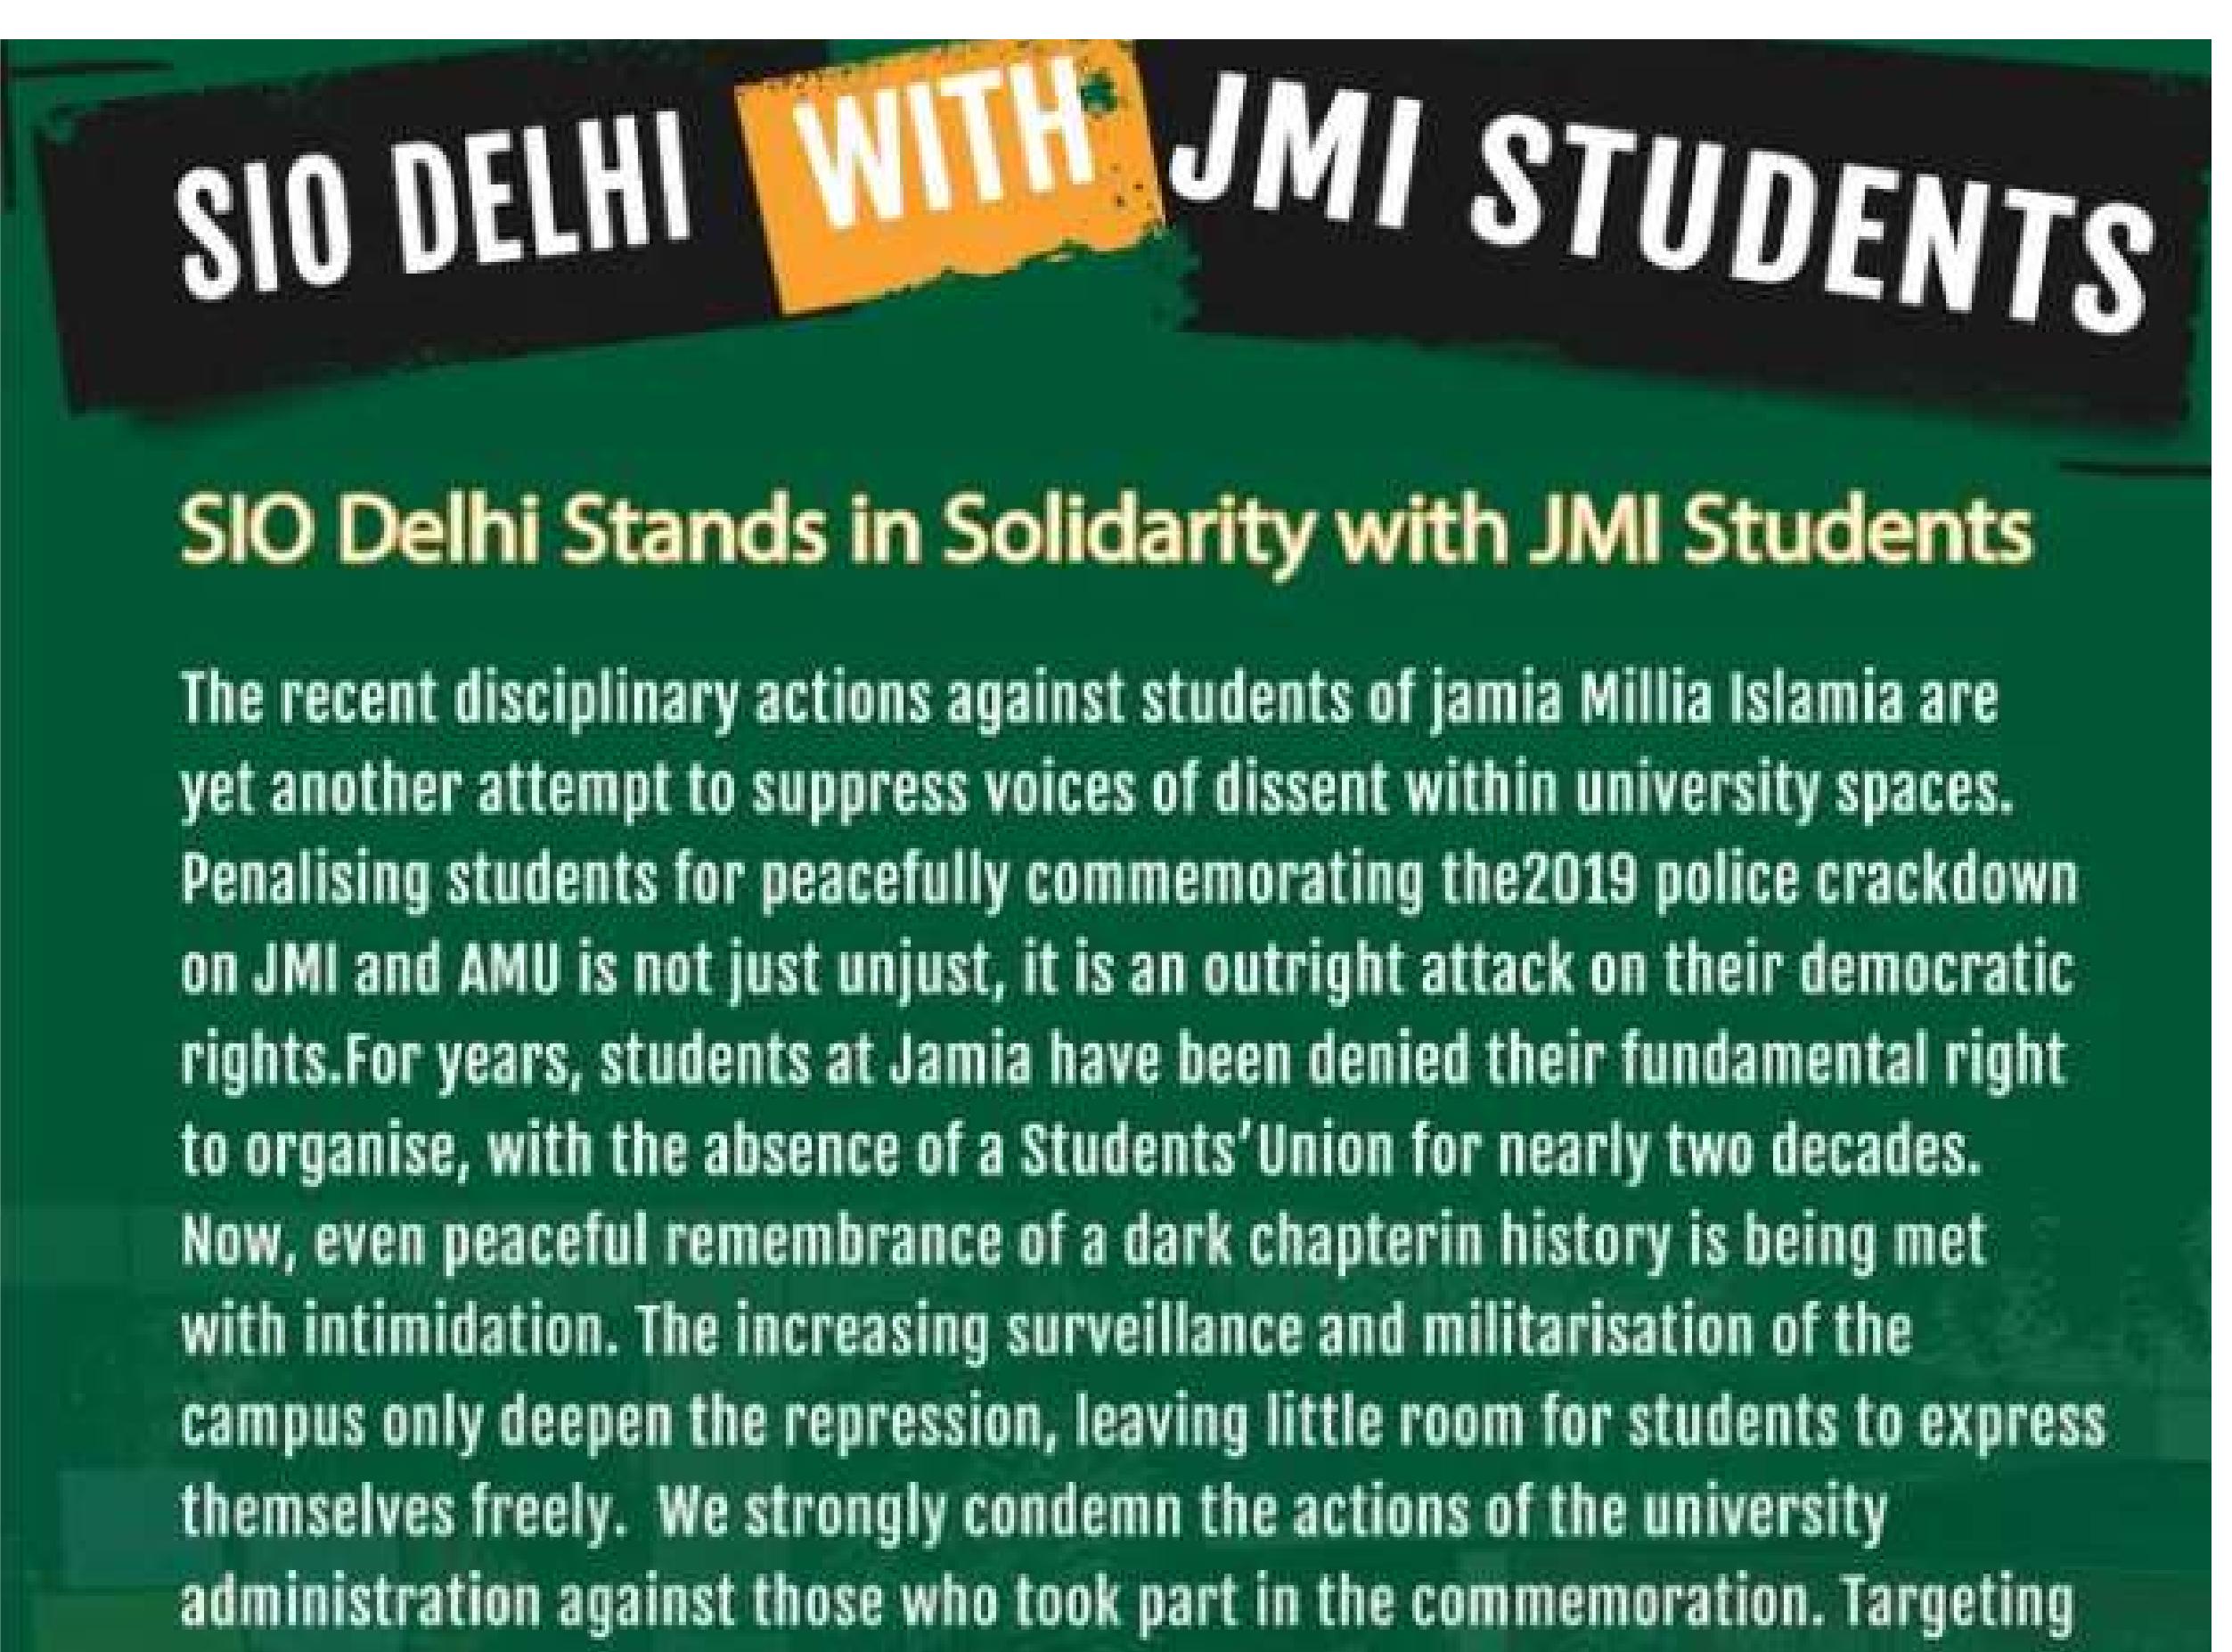

SIO Delhi took a proactive step during the Delhi Assembly elections by releasing a Student Manifesto that articulated the concerns and demands of the student community. The manifesto was formally presented to electoral candidates and launched at the Press Club. The press conference served as a platform to communicate the purpose of this initiative and highlight key student issues including education quality, affordability, campus safety, and other pressing concerns - ensuring that student voices were represented in the electoral discourse. The manifesto was then formally presented to candidates contesting the elections.

SIO Delhi leadership attended the Nakba Day commemoration program hosted at the Palestinian Embassy. The event provided an important platform for solidarity with the Palestinian cause and was marked by its meaningful content and effective organization, reinforcing the commitment to support Palestine's struggle for justice.

When Jamia students were illegally detained and taken away by authorities without following proper legal procedures, SIO Delhi actively raised its voice against this injustice. The organization mobilized support, staged protests, and demonstrated unwavering solidarity with the affected students, ensuring their concerns were amplified and their rights defended.

The President of SIO Delhi conducted visits to meet with families of those who have been imprisoned without just cause during the holy month of Ramzan. These meetings aimed at providing moral support and solidarity to the affected families.

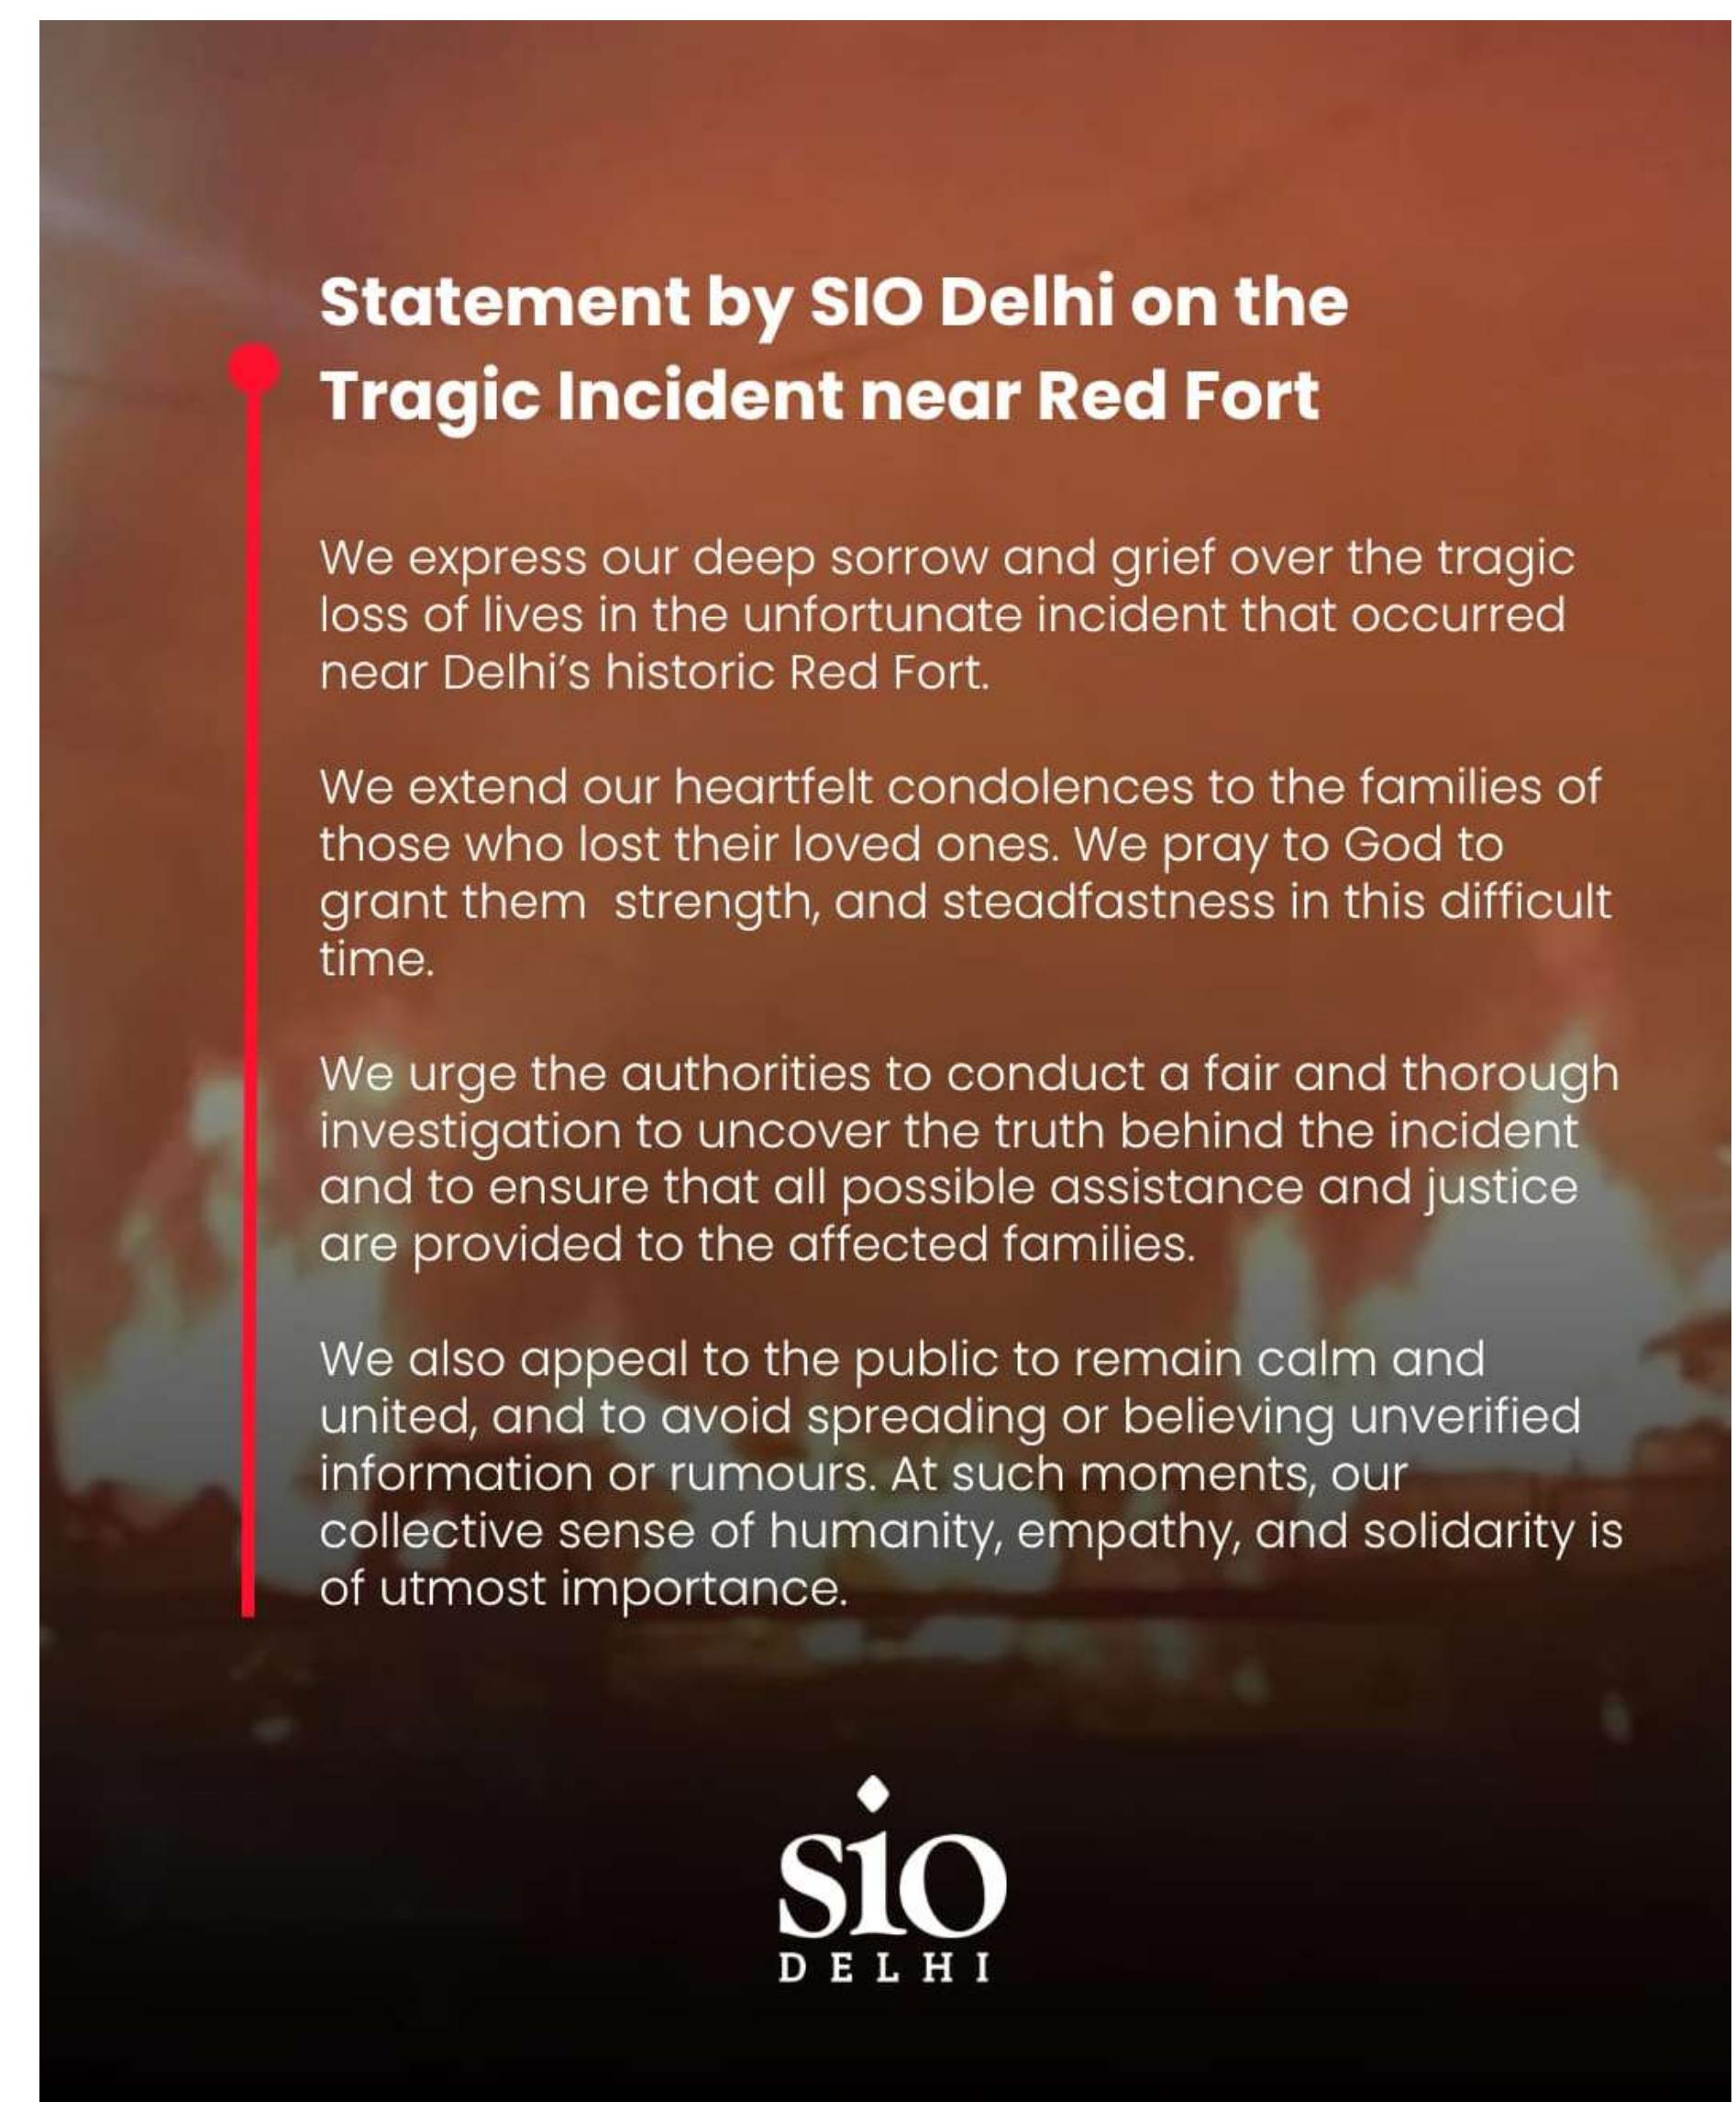

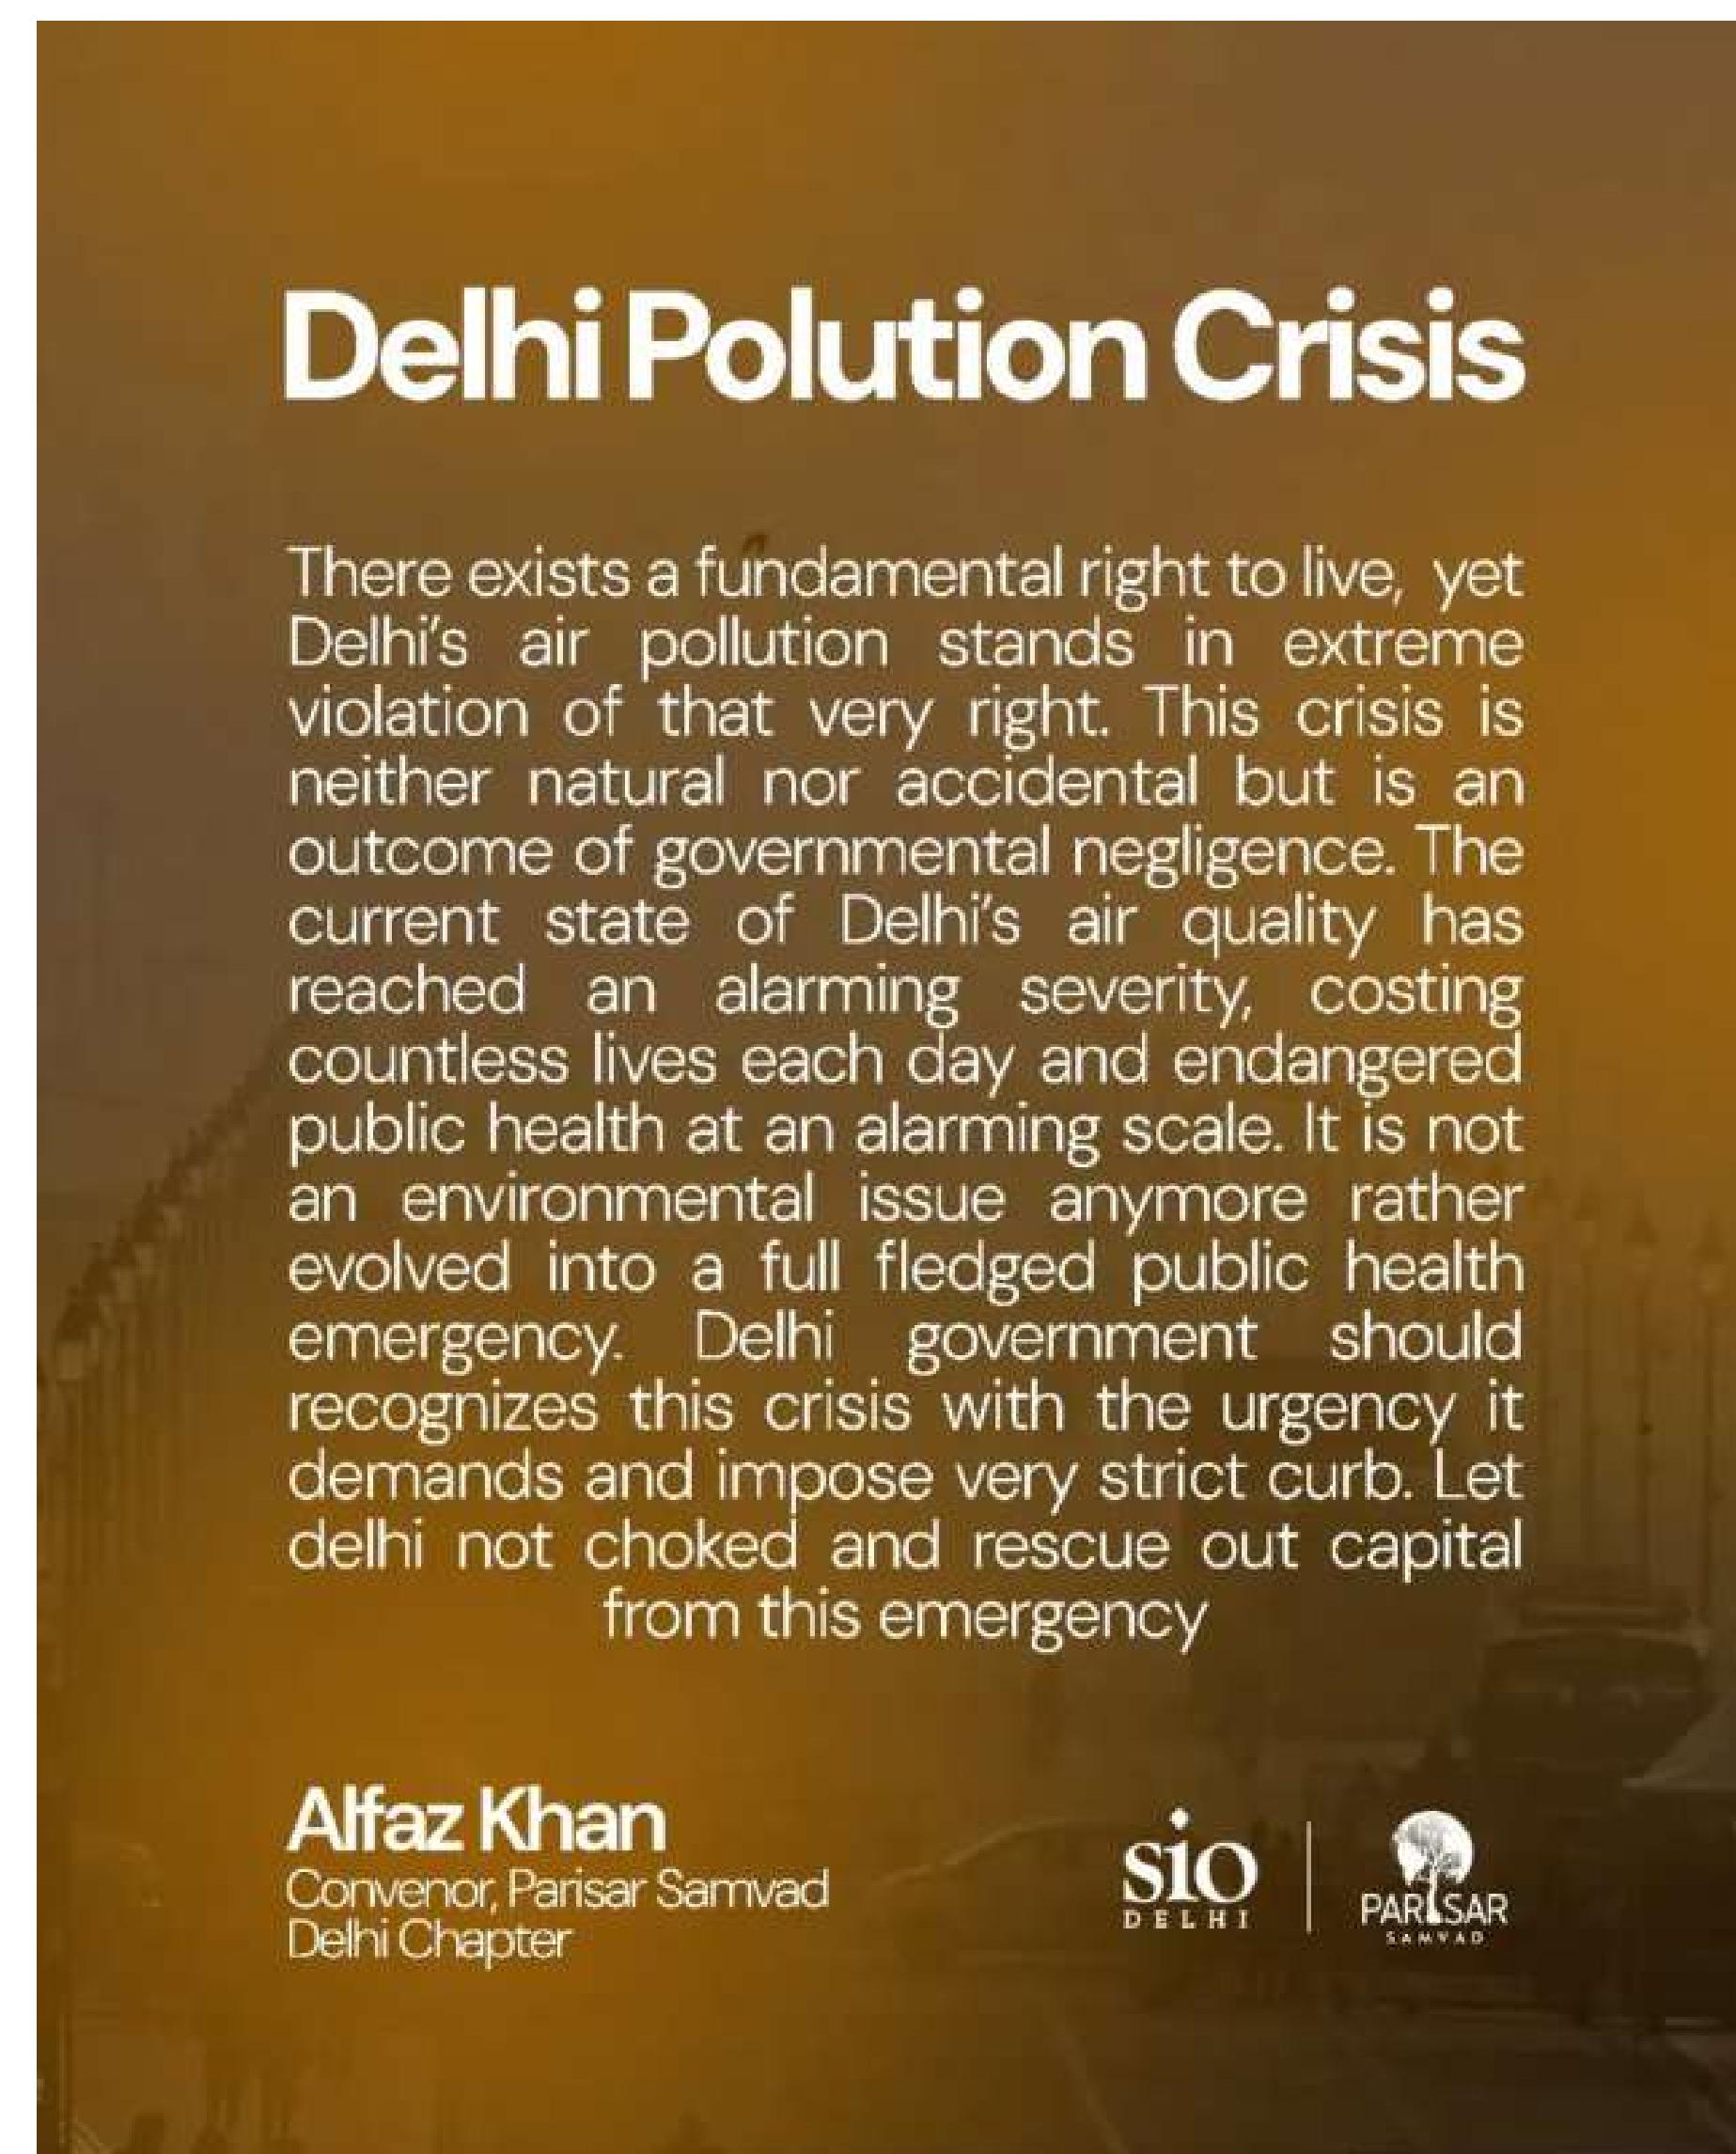

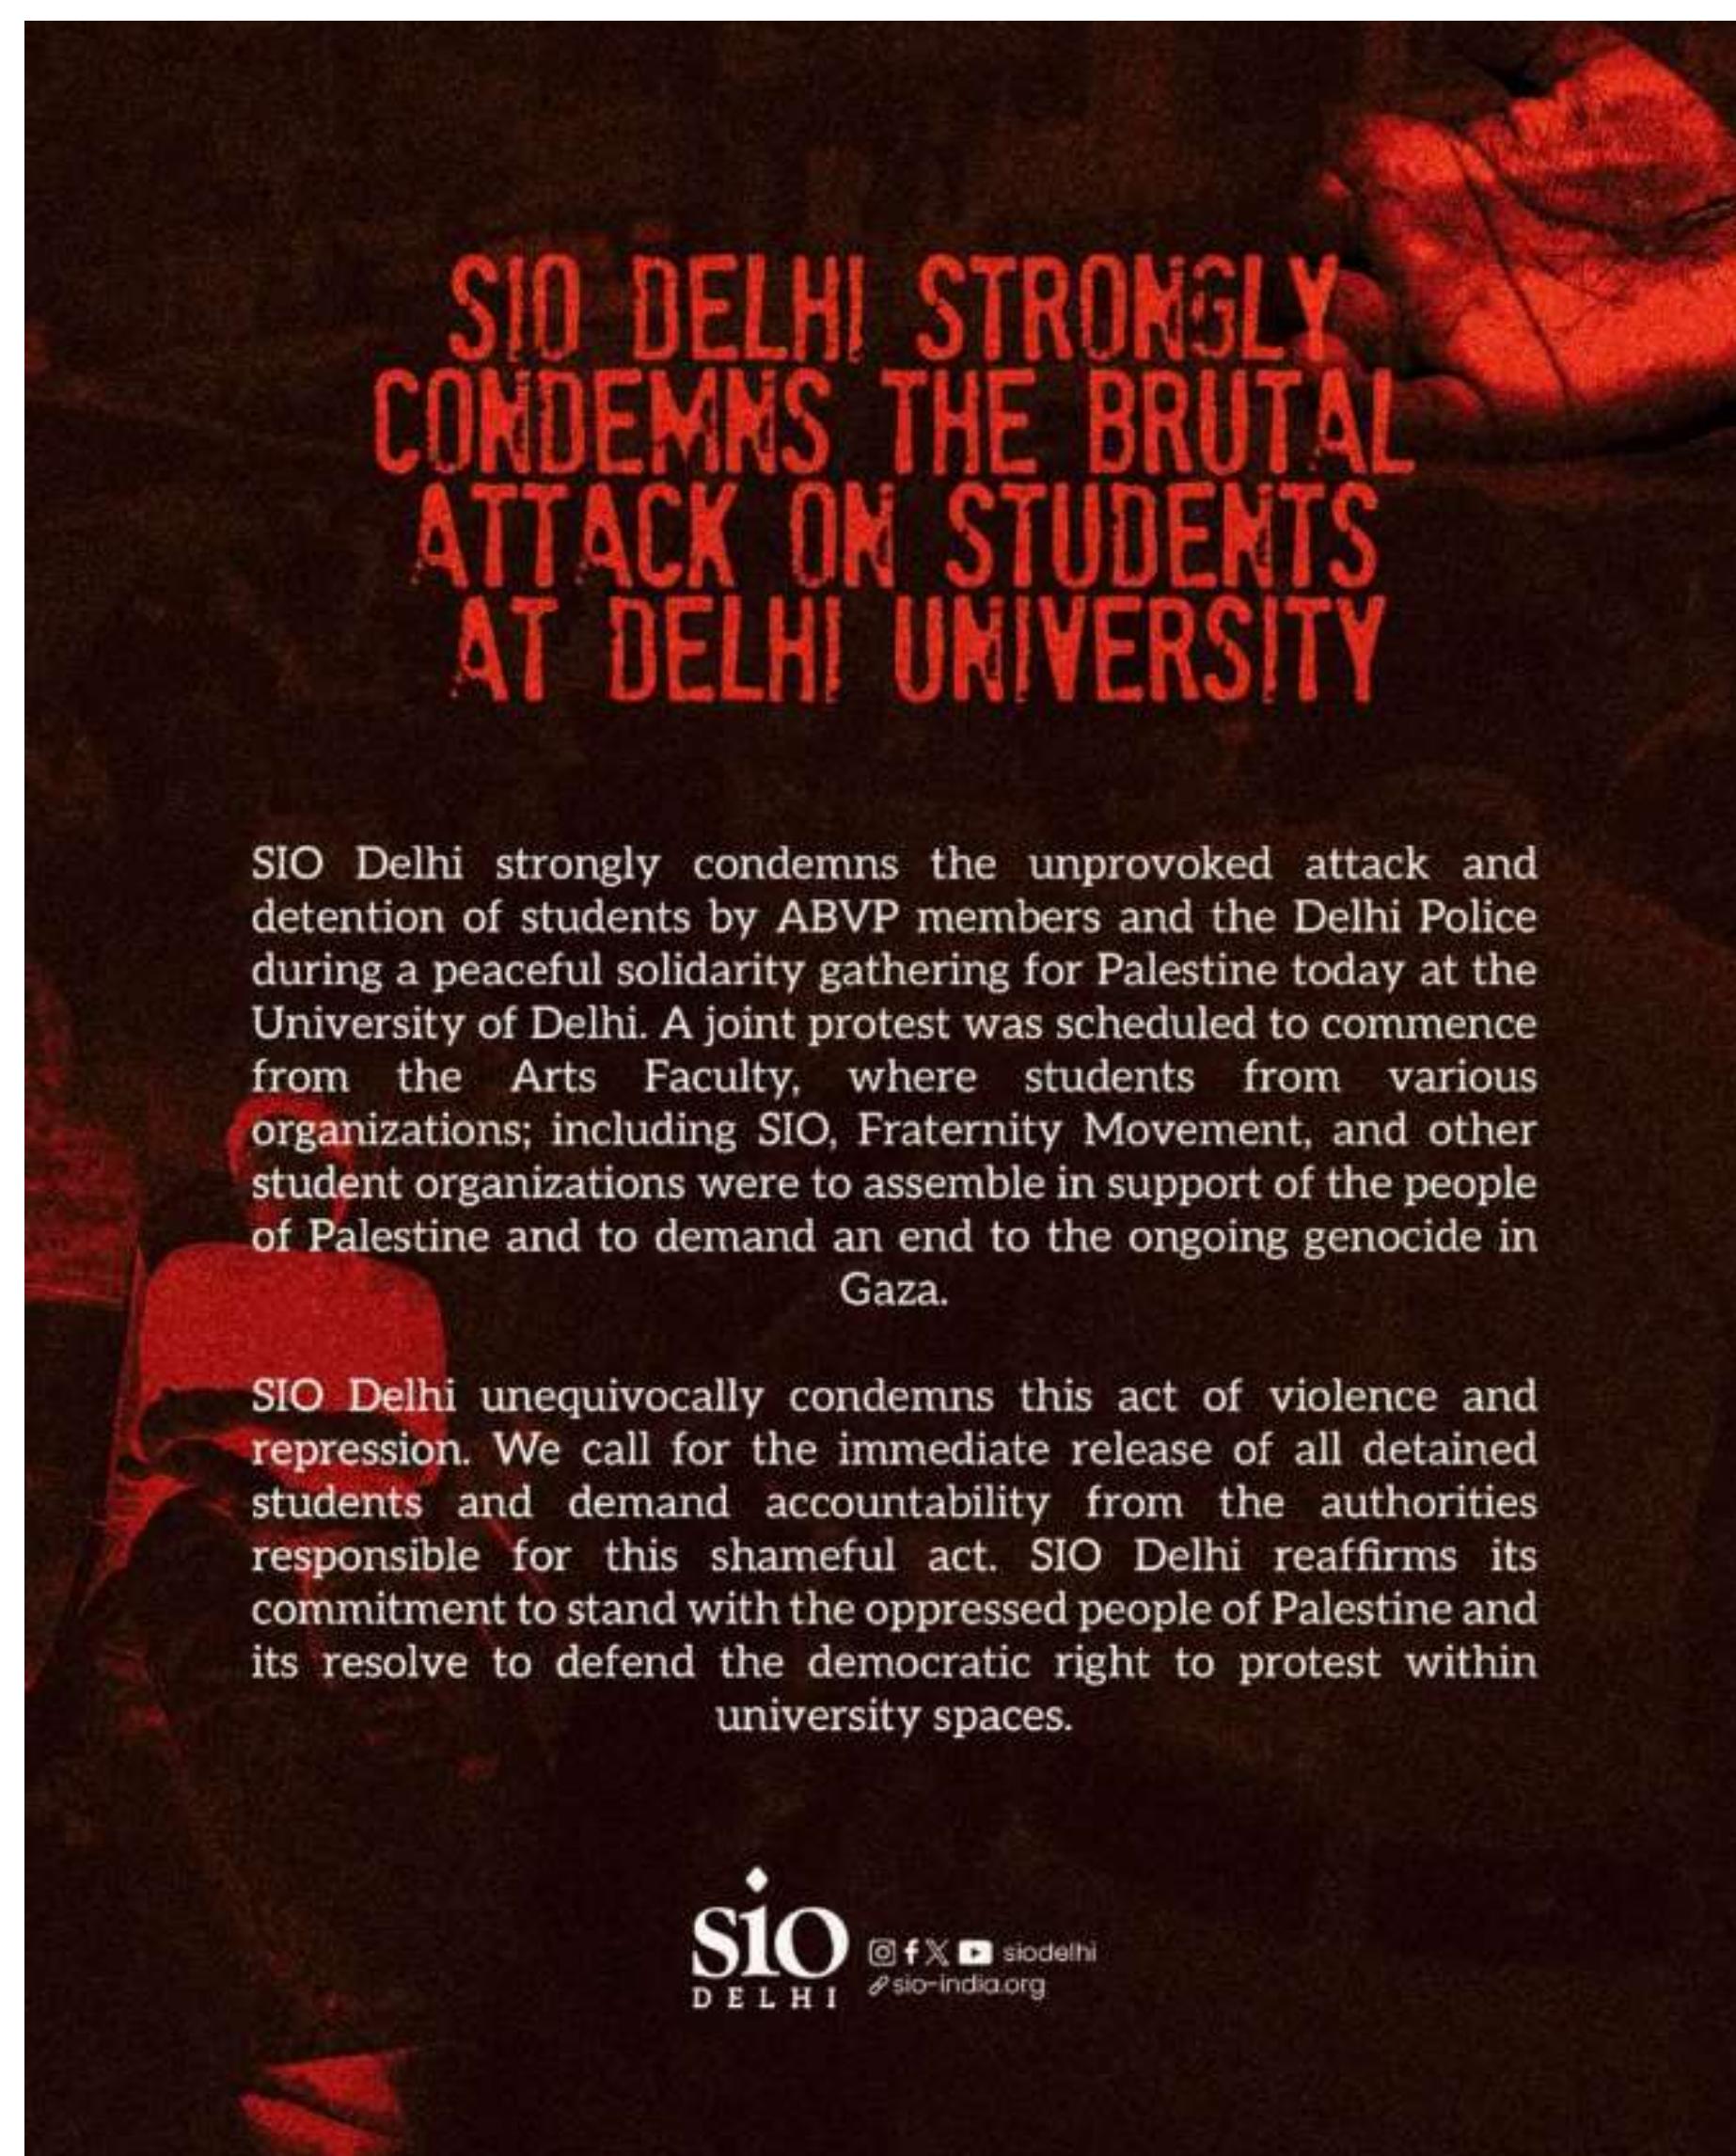

SIO Delhi released posters demanding the immediate release of SIO leaders who were detained during the Waqf protests in Kerala.

Media

SIO Delhi leveraged digital media effectively by issuing press releases that were widely shared across various online platforms. These digital press releases garnered significant reach, ensuring the organization's messages and activities reached a broader audience beyond traditional media channels.

SIO Delhi actively engaged with local influencers and press media to publicize its major programs through strategic press releases. This effort resulted in coverage across more than 30 newspapers, achieving significant media reach and visibility.

08 Islamic Thought

SIO Delhi upheld its proud tradition by organizing the Imam Maududi Memorial Lectures – one of the organization's most distinguished programs. This year featured two lectures: the 8th edition was held in December 2024, and the 9th edition took place in November 2025. These memorial lectures continue to serve as an important intellectual platform, honoring the legacy of Imam Maududi while engaging audiences with contemporary Islamic discourse.

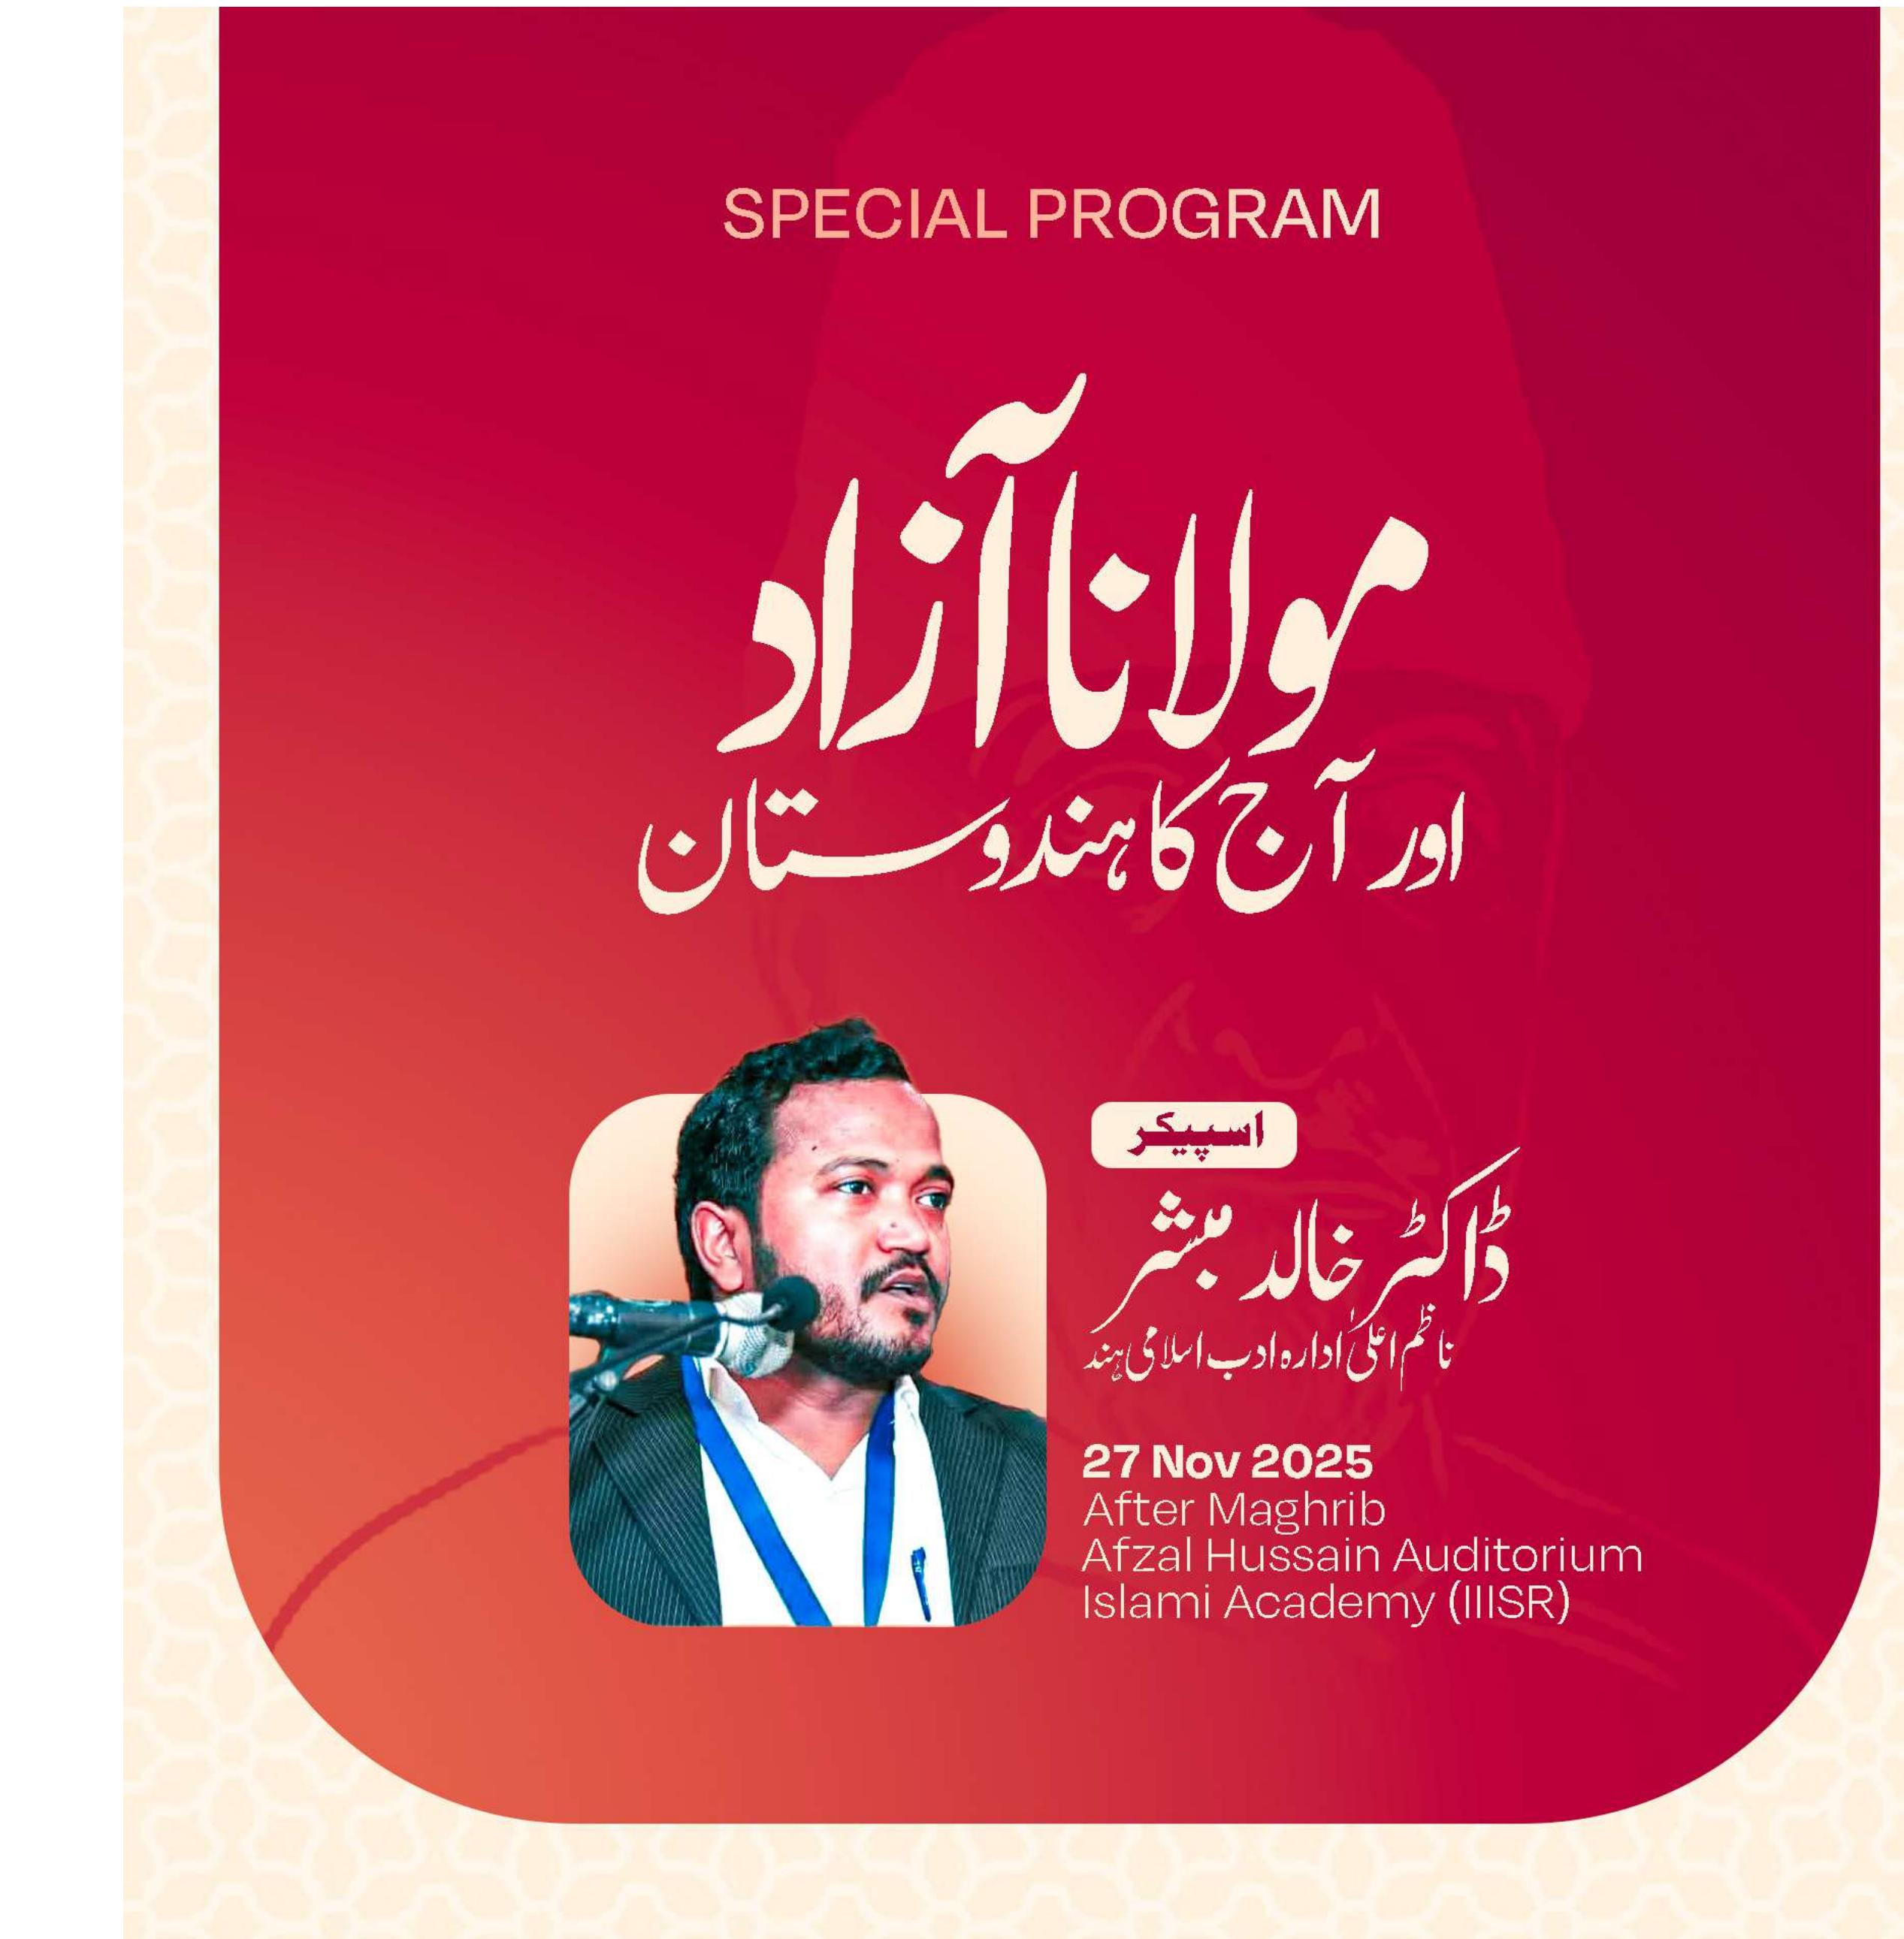

A one-day Study ZAC program was conducted by SIO Delhi focusing on 'Tahreek-e-Islami Hind ka Ilmi aur Fikri Mahaz' (The Intellectual and Academic Dimensions of the Islamic Movement in India). Participants engaged in preparatory reading and presented academic papers on the subject, facilitating meaningful intellectual discourse and learning.

Art and Culture

Under the 'Haya is Life' initiative, children were given an opportunity to create posters. Laptops were provided to participants, and they designed posters on the theme Haya .

SIO Delhi organized a special program on National Education Day titled 'Abul Kalam aur Aaj ka Hindustan' (Abul Kalam and Contemporary India). The event featured discussions on Maulana Abul Kalam Azad's thoughts, philosophy, and vision for education and nation-building.

SIO Delhi organized 'Call for Creativity' through the Naqsh Forum for Art & Culture, featuring three categories: Canvas Painting on the theme of Palestine, Photography on the theme of Humanity, and on-the-spot Essay Writing.

10 Nodes

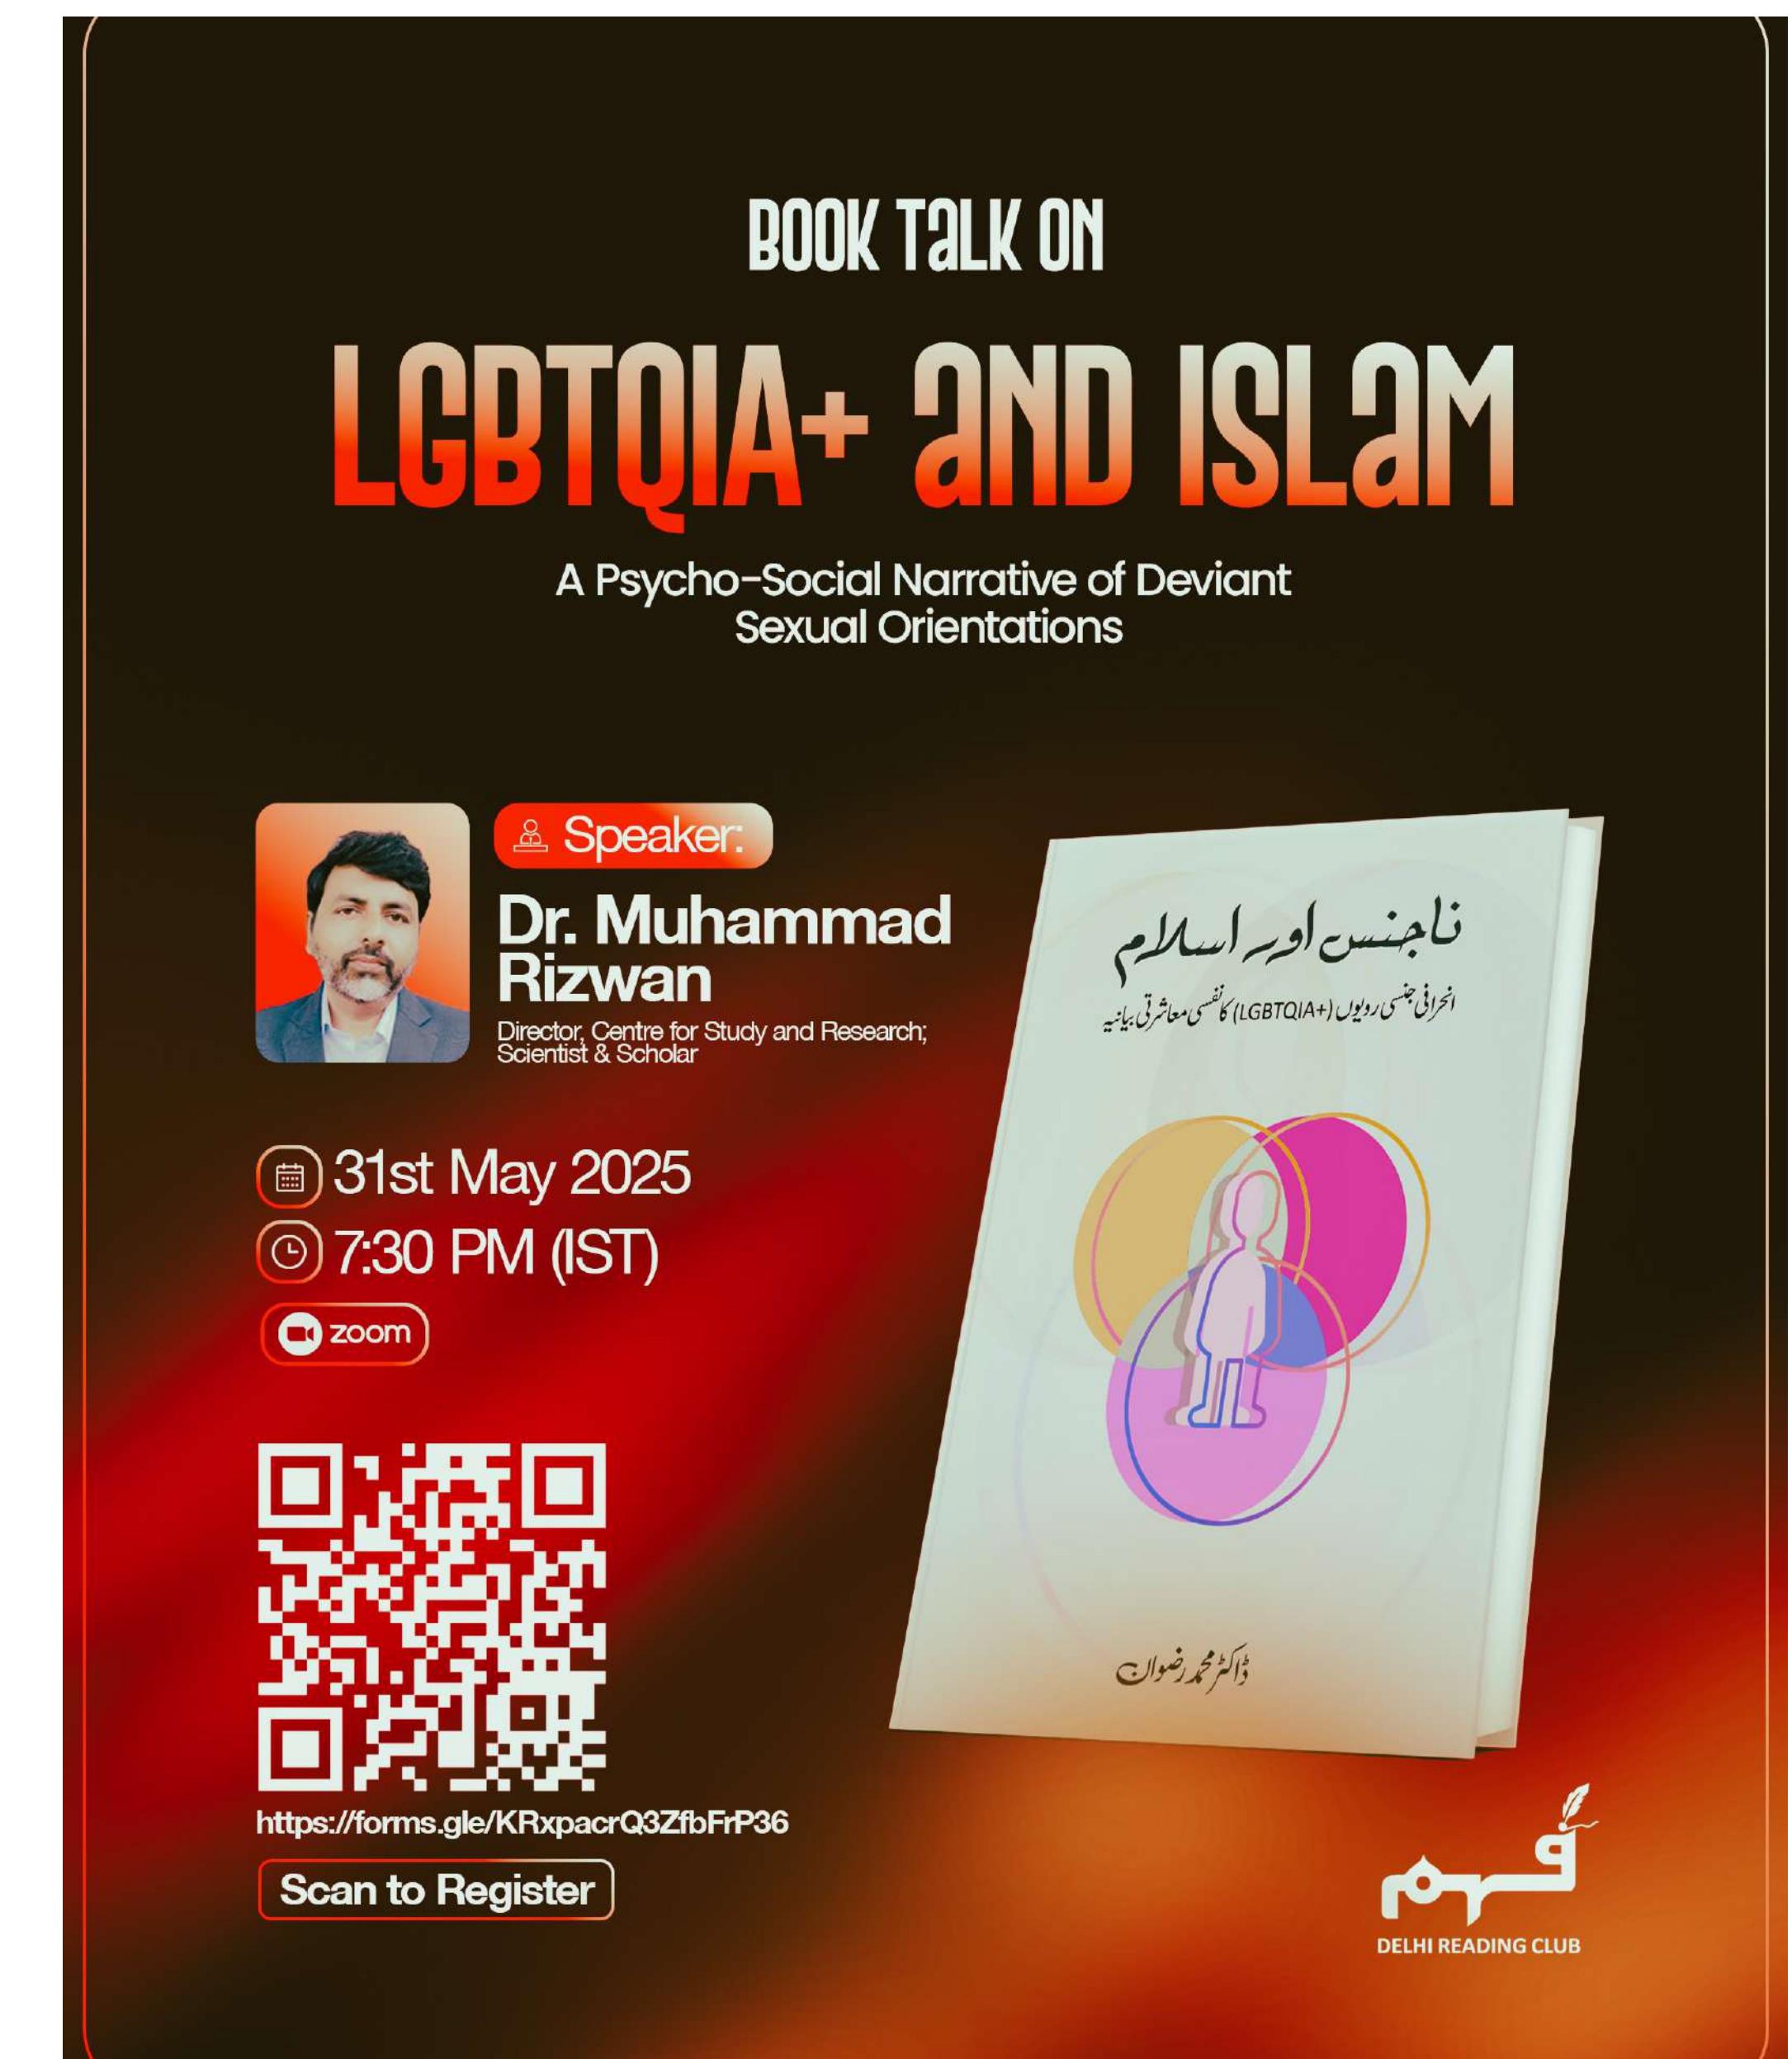

Naqsh

A one-day Creative Workshop was organized, which attracted participants from across Delhi who showcased their creative talents.

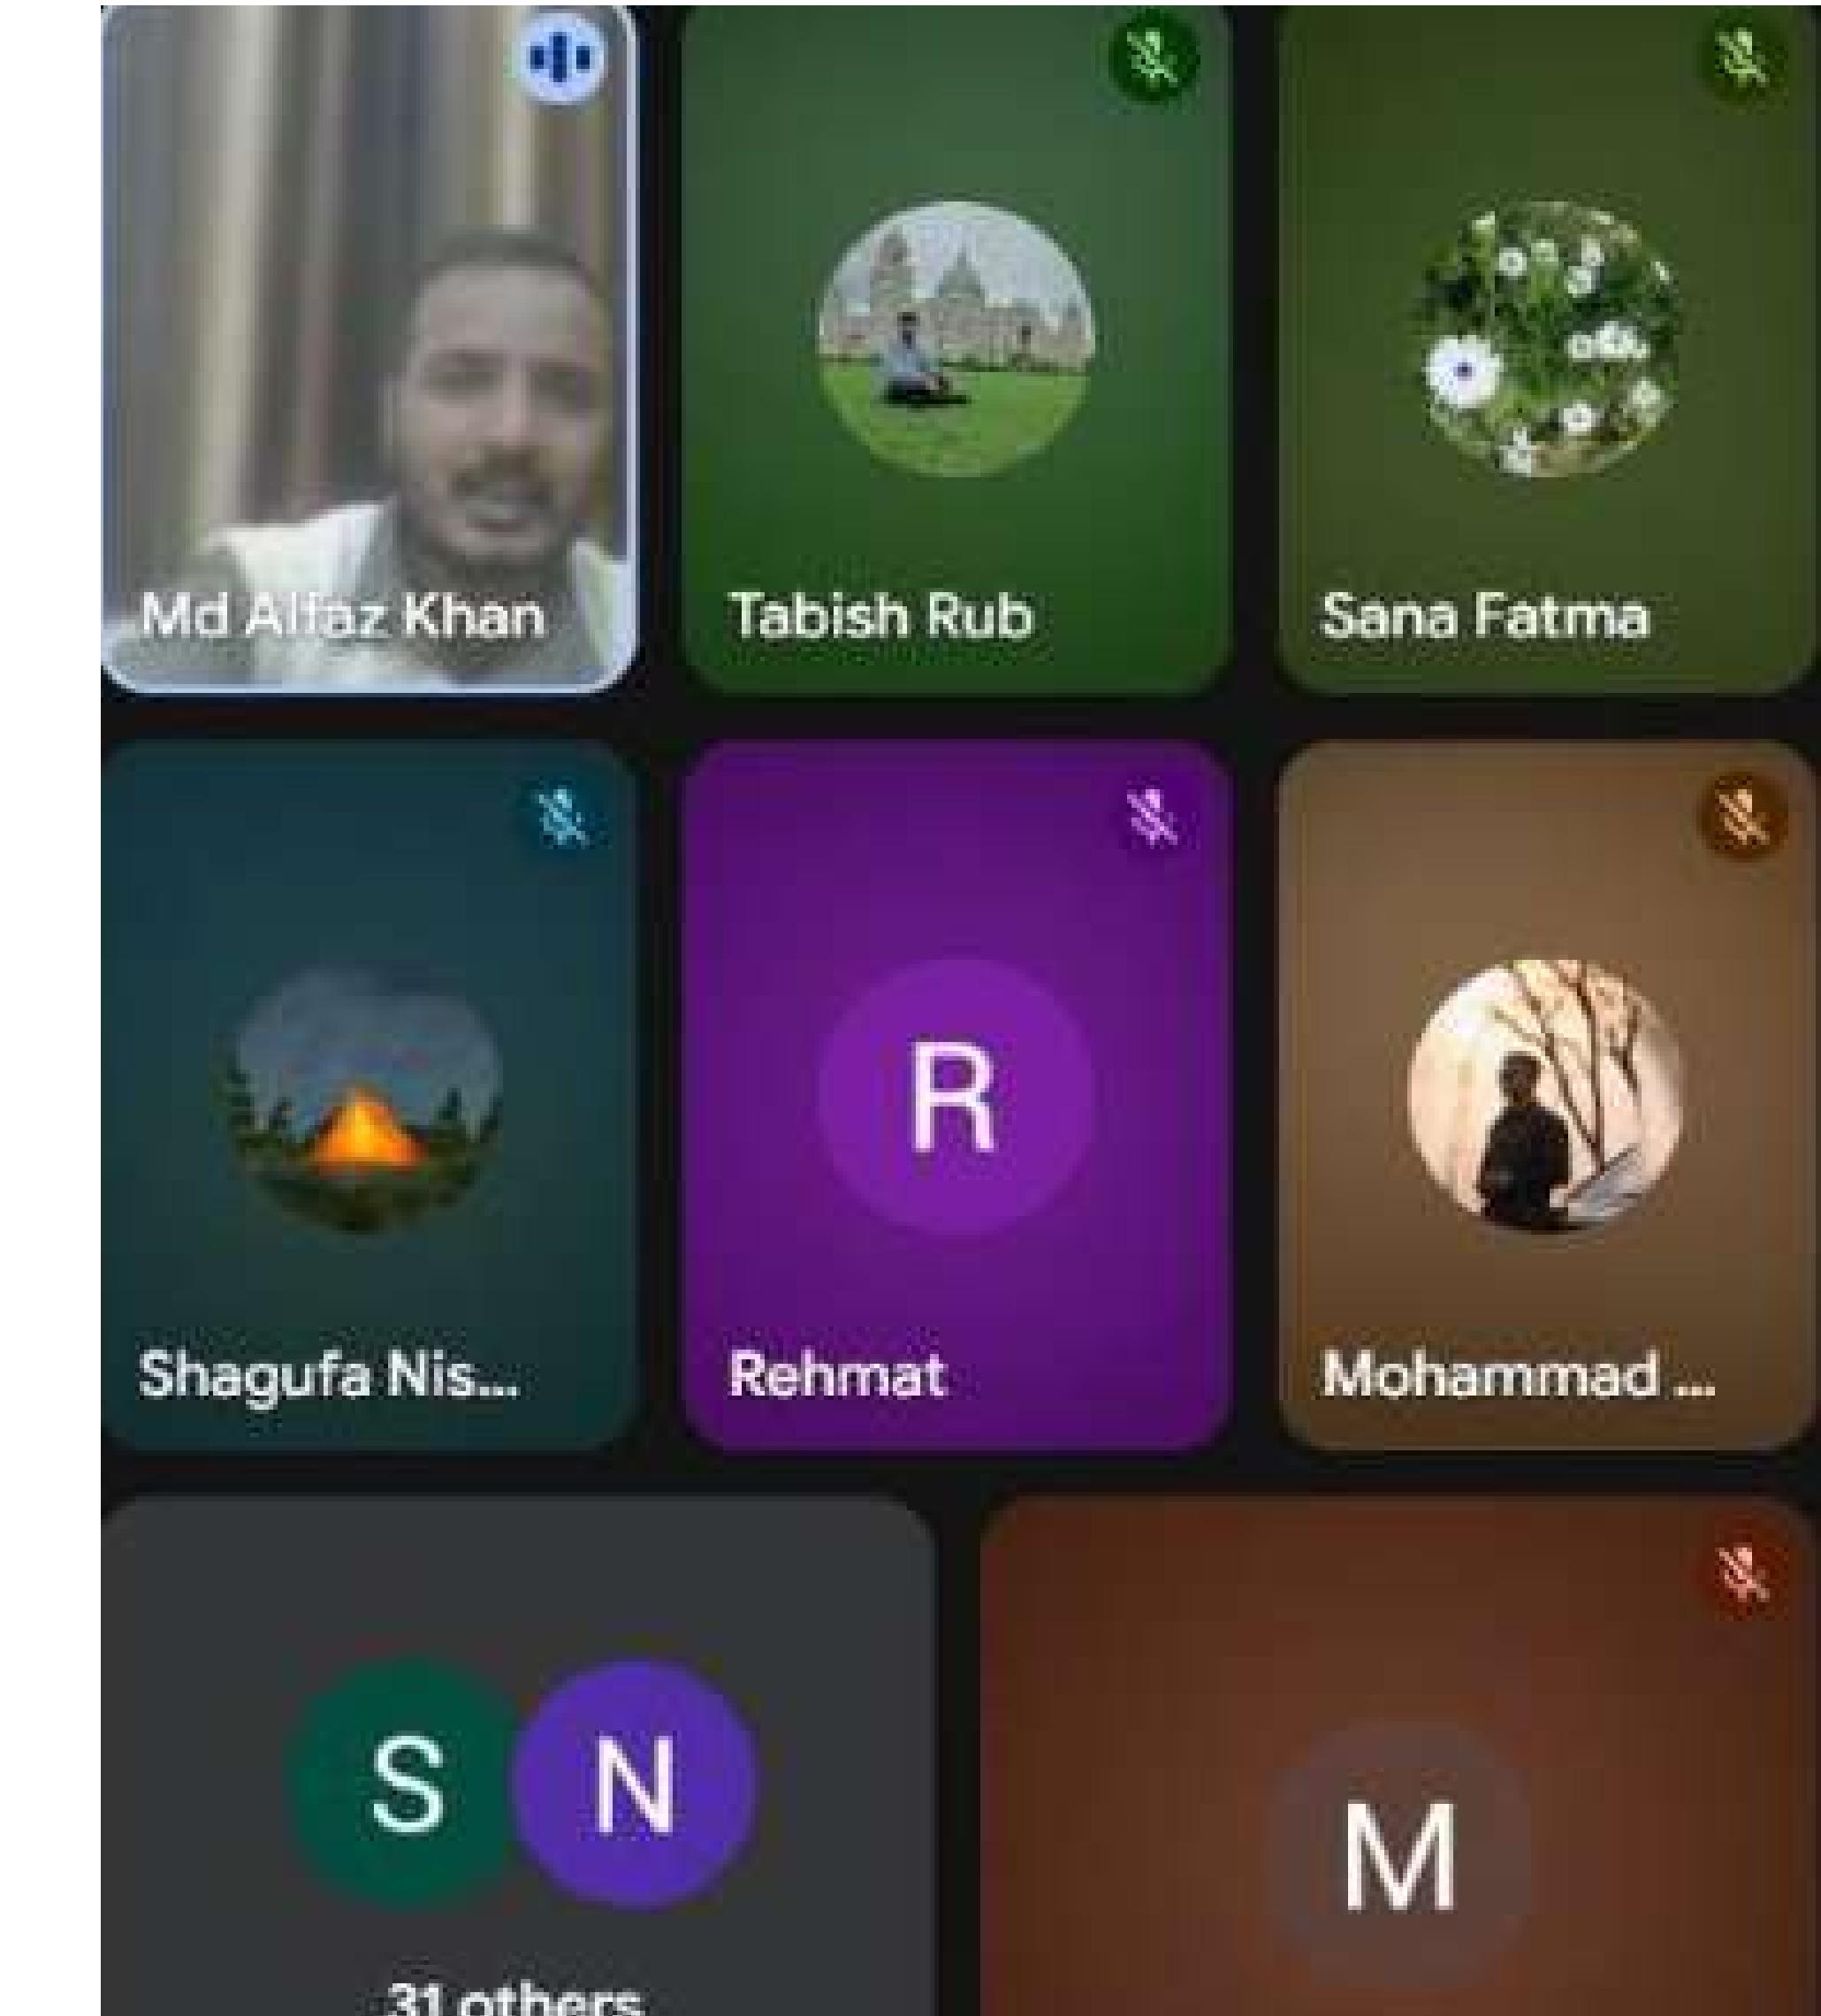

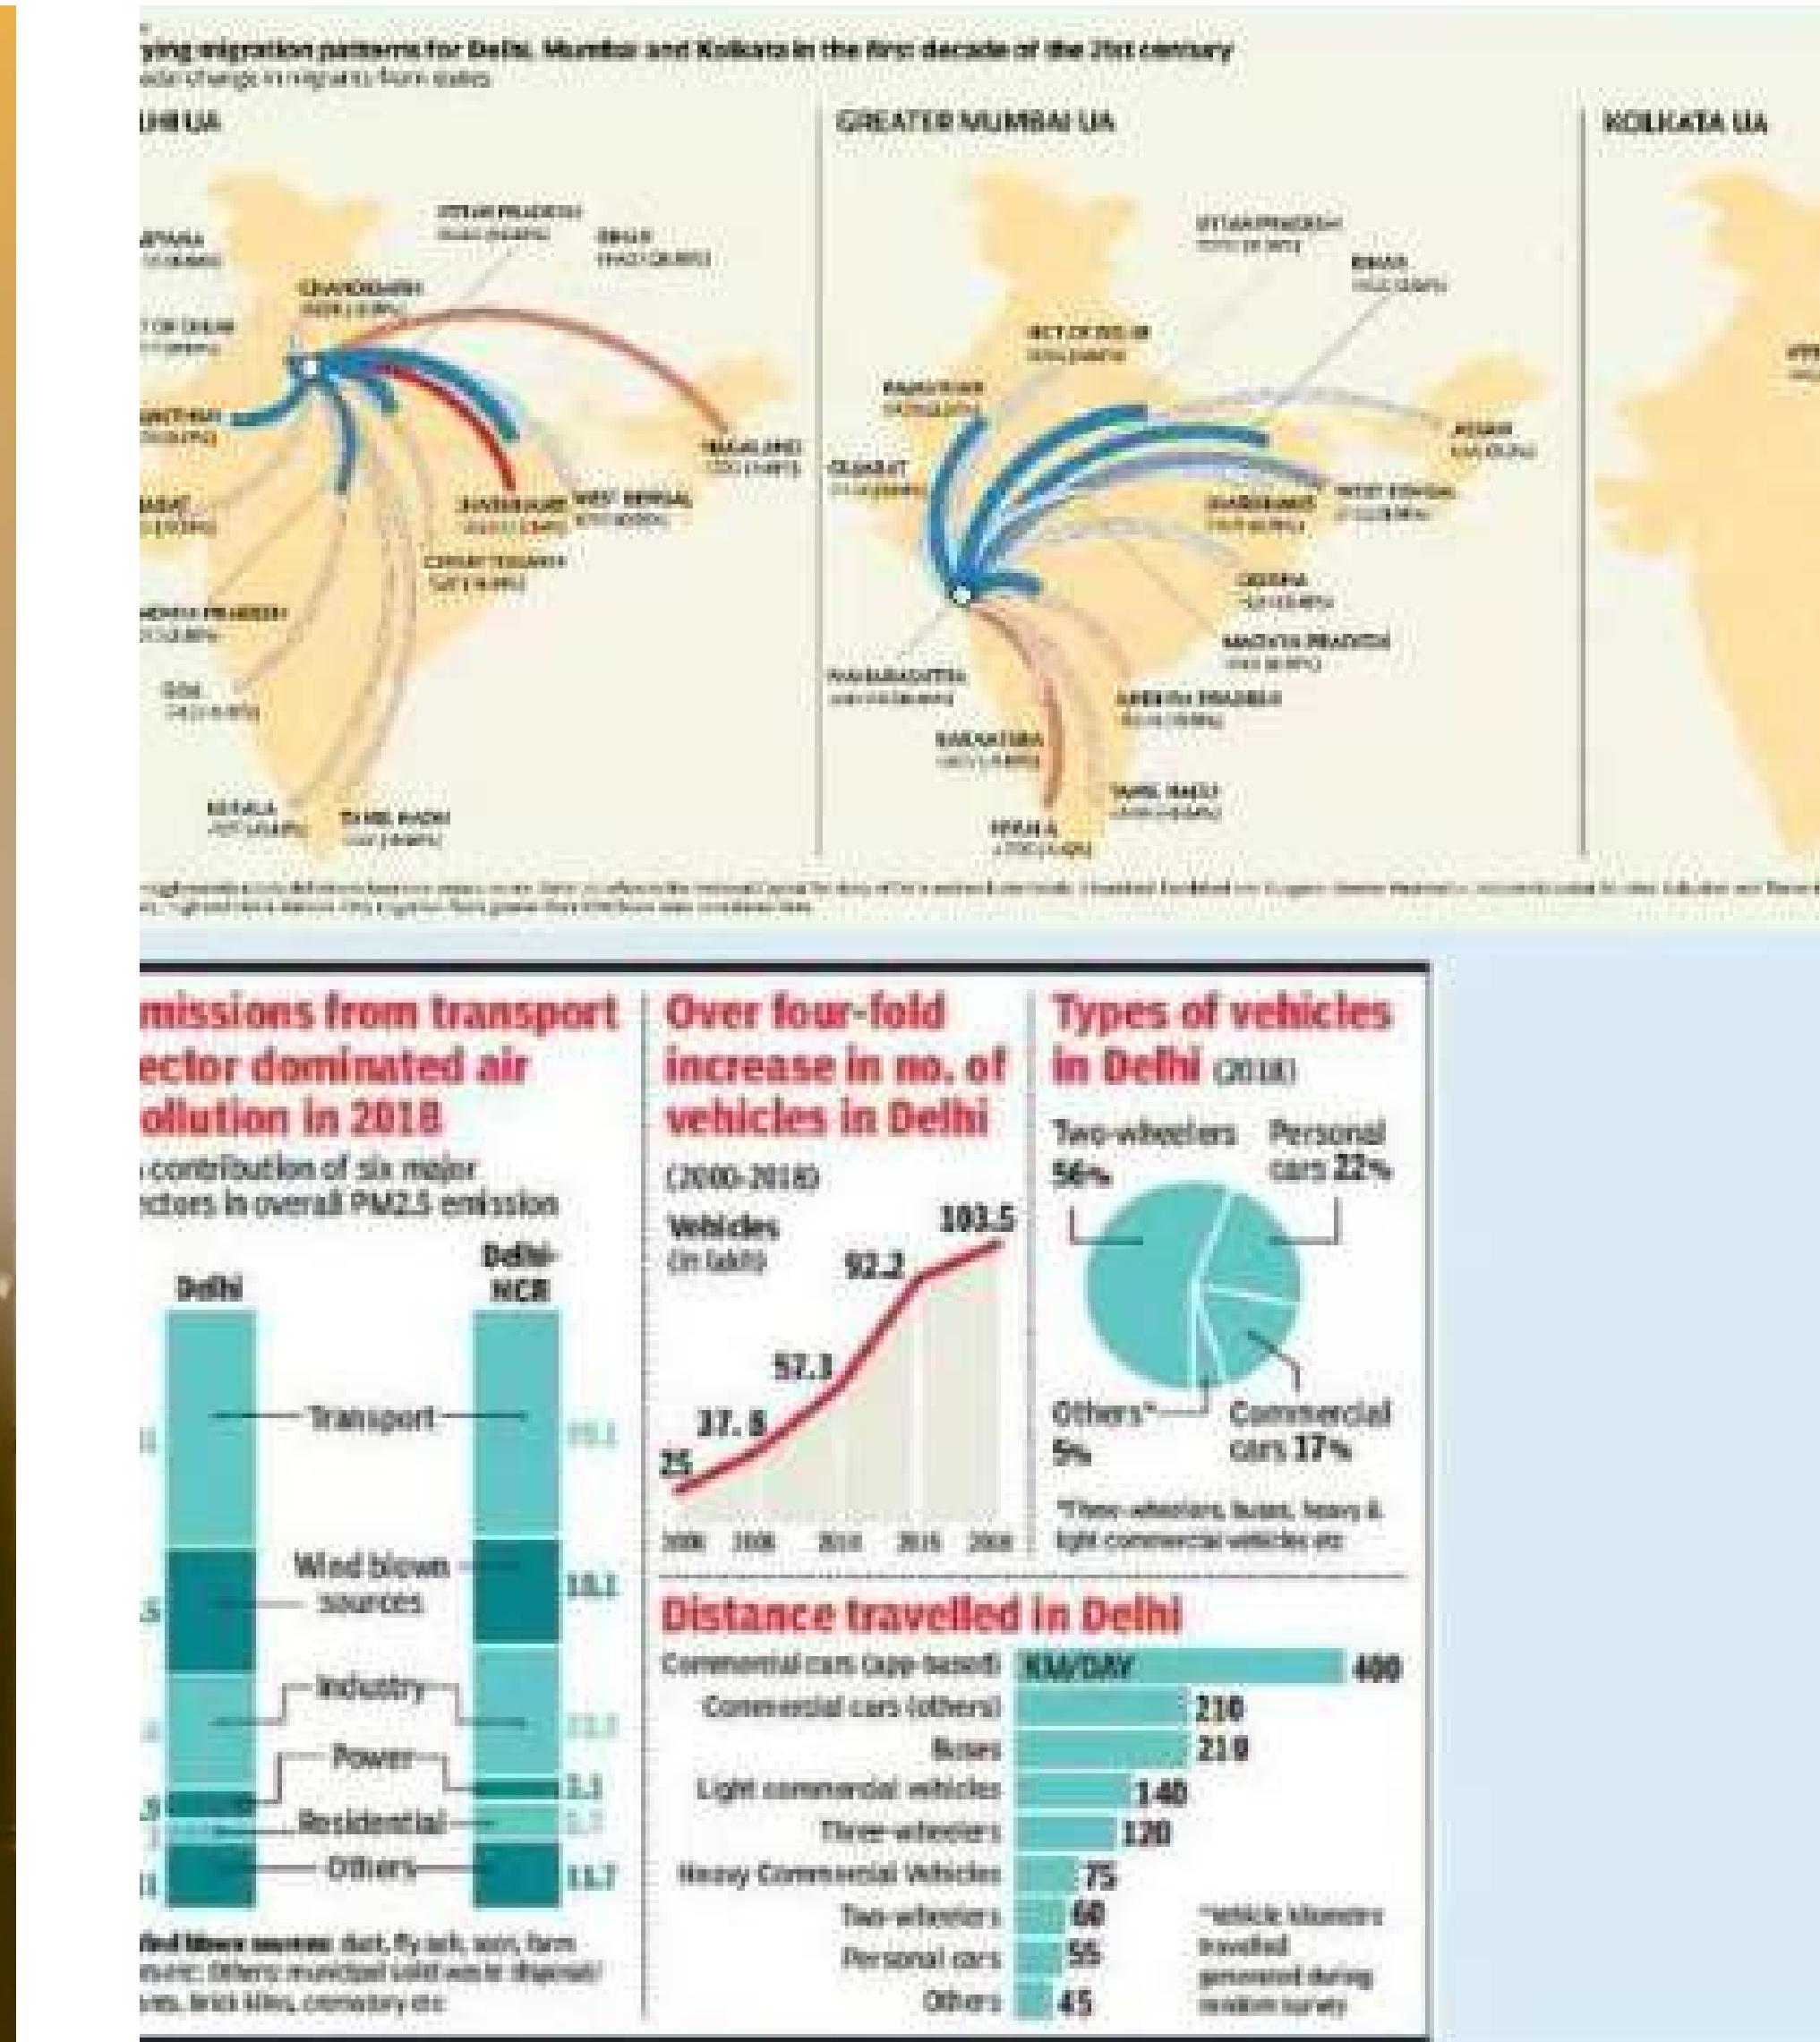

Fahem

A notable program was conducted by Fahem on the topic 'LGBTQIA+ and Islam: A Psycho-Social Narrative of Deviant Sexual Orientation.' The session provided an in-depth exploration of the subject from Islamic and psycho-social perspectives and was well-received by participants.

Parisar Samvad

Parisar conducted an online program on the theme 'Pollution in Delhi: Finding Solutions,' which examined the critical issue of air pollution in the capital. Participants engaged in discussions identifying the root causes of pollution and exploring practical, sustainable solutions.

In collaboration with an NGO, a Swachhata Abhiyan (Cleanliness Campaign) was organized where children were taught that cleanliness is part of faith (Iman) and the importance of maintaining cleanliness.

QRC

Alhamdulillah, SIO Delhi successfully launched and implemented the Quran Reading Circle (QRC), a significant new initiative aimed at deepening engagement with the Holy Quran. The program was first introduced at the Zonal Secretariat meeting, where the framework and objectives were outlined. Following this, QRC was systematically rolled out across units throughout Delhi, where it has been embraced as a regular activity. The program has now been established in the vast majority of units across the zone, creating consistent spaces for collective Quranic study and reflection, strengthening the spiritual foundation of members.

At the unit level, Tajweed learning programs were established wherein members and associates met once weekly at mosques to receive Tajweed instruction from the Imam. This initiative aimed at improving Quranic recitation skills among participants.
